S. KOREANS RETREAT ON EASTERN FRONT

RAILROADS WILL BE UNDER ARMY AUTHORITY TODAY

Skeleton Organization Of Less Than 50 Men To Head Rail Network

STRIKE AVERTED, UNIONS PLEASED AFTER SEIZURE

Washington, Aug. 16. —(AP)— The army set up a skeleton organization of fewer than 50 men today to take over the nation's major railroads tomorrow and see that their normal operations go on without a break.

Earl R. Bendetsen, assistant secretary, announced that all necessary steps have been taken to carry out President Truman's order that the army seize the railroads at 4 p.m. E. S. T. tomorrow to avert a threatened strike.

He emphasized that the army wants sufficient reports to be sure that normal operations are maintained but that it will not interfere in operations if they are carried on normally.

Bendetsen announced these steps to carry out the seizure:

1. Major General Frank A. Heileman, a veteran engineer officer who is the army's chief of transportation, has been appointed director of operations. Brigadier General Andrew F. McIntyre, of Philadelphia, a reserve officer on leave from the Pennsylvania, will be General Heileman's excutive.

2. Seven regional offices with staffs of five officers each, and three sub-regional offices with staffs of two each, will be open for business tomorrow morning in key cities over the United States. The regional offices will be in charge of railway presidents, who are also reserve officers and are being called to active duty. The sub-regional directors will be offi-

STUDENT ADMITS MAGUIRE SLAYING

Says He Struck Woman When She 'Bit Me On The Tongue While Kissing'

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A student was quoted by autorities today as saying he killed attractive, red-haired Mrs. Theresa Maguire in a Queens "lovers lane" because she bit his tongue.

Police said Steven Albert, 23, told them he met 34-year-old Mrs. Maguire in a bar, and later beat her to death with a rock in a lonely area near the aqueduct horse race track.

"When we were kissing," Albert was quoted, "she clamped down hard with her teeth on my tongue.

"I saw red. I hit her hard so she would let go. She did, but my tongue still hurt terribly, so I picked up a rock and kept hitting her."

The victim's body, nude from the waist up, was found yesterday lying on a red dress in a clump of bushes. A yellow jacket was draped over her legs.

Police said they learned that Mrs. Maguire, the mother of a young daughter, met young Albert in a Richmond Hill bar after she had spent the early part of the

Louisiana's Taxes Highest In Nation

Nearly Ten Cents Of Each Dollar Spent Taken By State; Levies Up 5.9 Per Cent Over Those Of One Year Ago

By Glenn Everett
(World Washington Correspondent)

The burden of state taxes in Louisiana during the fiscal year recently ended continued to be the highest in the nation, the department of commerce reported today.

Nearly a dime out of every dollar of income went for state taxes in Louisiana, as the s ate government collected over a quarter of a billion dollars for its coffers, the commerce department revealed in its annual reported titled "state tax collections."

The report is the only statistical summary that compares taxes—and their burden—in the 48 states.

In Louisiana during the fiscal year that ended on June 30, state tax collections totale $254,000,000, an increase of $14,000,000 or 5.9 percent over the previous record of $240,000,000 a year ago. This constituted 9.6 percent of the state's estimated total annual income.

The next highest burden of state taxes is found in New Mexico where 8.3 percent of the state's income is taken by state taxes.

The report does not take into account either federal or local taxes, but is confined exclusively to state taxes.

States collected virtually nine billion dollars in revenue in the last fiscal year. This was 600 million dollars higher than the previous year. the Federal government collected about 40 billion dollars.

State taxes amount to $96.22 per person per year for every man, woman, and child in Louisiana, the report reveals. The only state in the union with a higher tax rate is the state of Washington where taxes total $97.76 per capita. However, income in the state of Washington is higher, so that the burden of state taxes there is only 6.7 cents out of every dollar contrasted with 9.6 cents in Louisiana.

The state of New Jersey gets by with only 2.7 cents out of every dollar for state taxes. Illinois has a burden of 3.1 cents on the dollar.

The per capita rate of state taxes in New Jersey is only $39.23. Throughout most of the south it averages between $40 and $50. Louisiana, in fact, has not even distant competition for the honor

NAVY SECRETARY CREATES RUMBLE WITHIN CABINET

Acheson Backhands Matthews For Speaking In Adverse To Foreign Policy

SAID U. S. SHOULD START 'WAR TO COMPEL PEACE'

Washington, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson, with an assist from President Truman, cracked down hard on Navy Secretary Matthews today for saying that the United States should be willing to institute a war "to compel cooperation for peace."

The action not only precipitated the first wide open cabinet split on foreign policy since the row between James F. Byrnes and Henry A. Wallace in September, 1946—it also seemed to make inevitable a public debate on a preventive war with Russia.

Matthews expressed his view in a speech at the Boston navy yard last night. Today the state department was asked whether what he said represented government policy—or was perhaps some sort of policy-making trial baloon.

Press Officer Roger Tubby, in a statement initiated by Acheson and reportedly okayed by the president, asserted:

"The speech was not cleared by the department of state. Mr. Matthews' remarks about instituting a war for peace do not represent United States policy. The United States government does not favor instituting a war of any kind."

And in a further evidence of White House-state department coopration, the White House press office promptly added that the Matthews speech was not cleared by the White House.

Tubby told reporters that ever since the Wallace-Byrnes incident,

And Rep. Mahon (D. - Tex.), chairman of the military appropriations subcommittee, told the house yesterday that the defense department is preparing another request for $10,000,000,000.

Of the total in today's bill, $4,-000,000,000 goes to help friendly countries abroad build up their armed power to resist Communist aggression.

Yesterday the house sent to the senate a $35,554,490,425 general appropriation bill which included $14,500,000,000 for defense.

Besides foreign arms aid, other big allotments in the new bill include $260,000,000 for work on the hydrogen bomb and the atom bomb, $598,637,370 to stockpile strategic materials, $4,535,400,000 for the air force, $2,648,029,000 for the navy and $3,063,547,000 for the army.

Tokyo, Sunday, Aug. 27. —(AP)— The nine-weeks-old Korean war has taken a toll of well over 100,-000 killed, wounded or missing on both sides.

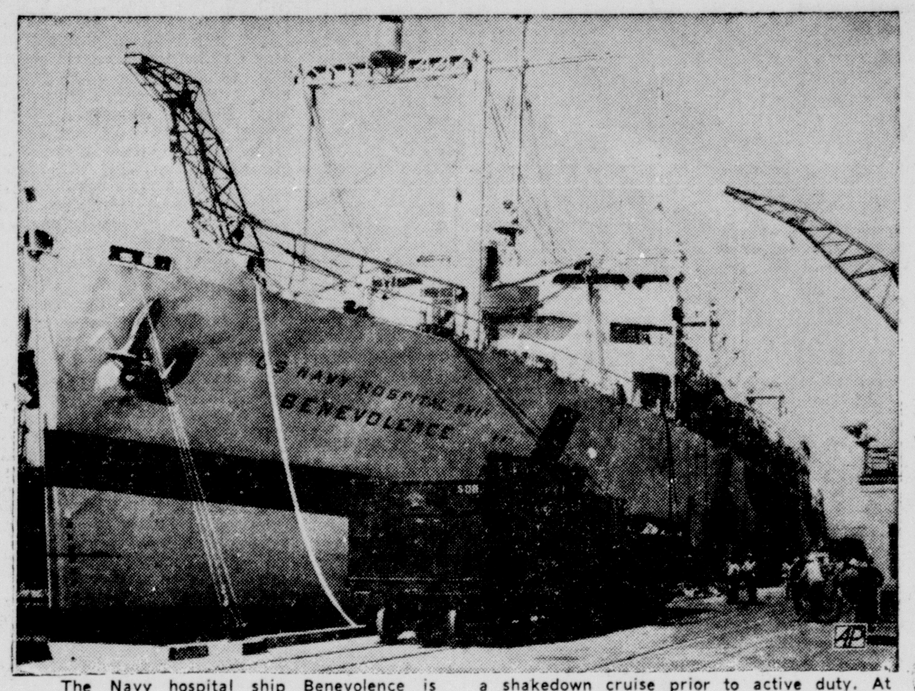
Two Are Seriously Hurt In Gun Battle

Opelousas, La., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Two men were seriously wounded in an exchange of gunfire near here early Friday, Sheriff Clayton Guilbeau reported today.

The sheriff identified them as C. J. Vanderhider, 35-year-old oil field "gang pusher" and Baptiste Aymond, about 60, a deputized night watchman. The shooting occurred at Port Barre, he said.

Sheriff Guilbeau said Vanderhider was shot four times and is hospitalized at Ville Platte. Aymond was hit three times, he added, and is at Foundation Hospital, New Orleans. Both suffered body wounds, he said.

HOSPITAL SHIP RAMMED BY FREIGHTER



The Navy hospital ship Benevolence is shown at dock in Mare Island Navy yard in California as she was reactivated for duty in the Korean war. A disastrous crash sank the ship off the fogbound Golden Gate as it was making a shakedown cruise prior to active duty. At least 18 are known dead and 82 are missing among the 505 reported aboard her when a freighter collision sent her down. (AP Wirephoto)

EIGHTEEN DEAD IN SHIP CRASH

Hospital Ship Remains Afloat After Collision With Freighter

San Francisco, Aug. 26. —(AP)— Seventeen men and a pretty navy nurse were known dead today—victims of the collision that sank the hospital ship Benevolence.

Some others may have been lost. The known survivors numbered 487.

The big mercy ship was rammed and slashed by a freighter in a blinding fog late yesterday, just outside San Francisco's Golden Gate. She overturned within 15 minutes and settled in 75 feet of water.

The freighter was the Mary Luckenbach, outbound for the east coast. She was not badly damaged and none of her crew was injured. The Benevolence was coming in from a shake-down cruise.

Cpt. Barton E. Bacon, 49, skipper of the hospital ship, was on the bridge with Capt. Lyle J. Havens, harbor pilot.

Captain Bacon said Havens shouted "I hear a whistle!"

The flash went to the engine room "full stop. Full right rudder."

"Then the ship appeared," Captain Bacon related. "While we were making the turn it hit us."

Captain Havens was one of the dead brought ashore that night.

Those who did not die saved themselves or were saved, in a multitude of manners. One boy told of playing a grim game of "ring around the rosy" in the cold water with the fog dripping around them, waiting for rescue.

"We formed a circle with our hands to stay afloat," he said. "The ring got bigger and bigger. When one guy got a cramp or started to go down, we hauled him over our arms and held him till he was better."

The Benevolence and the Mary Luckenbach each carried radar equipment. One of the survivors was a young electrican's mate—reporters didn't get his name—who said as he was warming up on coffee "I don't know what happened. We had five ships on that radar screen and not one was near

1,084 In La. To Get Draft Board Greeting

New Orleans, Aug. 26. —(AP)— Draft board greetings are en route to 1,084 Louisiana registrants, Brig. Gen. Raymond Hufft, state selective service director, said today.

The general said Louisiana's 75 boards were mailing the call to 1,084 to insure that 877—the state's quota—will be found among them.

Many of the registrants may be eligible for postponements, Hufft said. Of the men called, 654 will report to New Orleans' induction station, 220 to Shreveport and 210 to Alexandria during the week of Sept. 25.

Mississippi's September quota is 750 men.

A new national call for 50,000 expected in November, would take about the same number from the two states as the previous calls for September and October, Hufft said.

167 Killed In Huk Raids Near Manila

Communist-Led Guerrilla Band Sets Fire To Eleven Towns; Heavily Armed Marauders Oppose National Government

By Frank L. White

Manila, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Five thousand Communist-led guerrilas ravaged and set fire to 11 towns in central Luzon last night and today in terror raids that left 167 persons known dead.

The heavily armed and Red-directed marauders swooped down from the hills in what a high official called a "concerted" attack against the Philippine government.

The raiding "Hukbalahaps," who organized to help fight the Japanese during World War II but refused to disband when peace came, raided within 25 miles of Manila before they retreated toward the canebreaks and mountains.

A heavy police guard was thrown around this capital city. In the uneasy quiet of Saturday night.

The toll included 100 persons killed at Tarlac, 70 miles north of Manila. Government reports said at least 20 dead "Huks" were left on the battle scenes where the Philippine army used light tanks to rout the Rebels .

In many places, the government said, the Huks left Communist literature behind. In some attacks, according to witnesses, the guerrillas shouted opposition to Philippine government plans to send a combat team to aid the United Nations in Korea.

A national defense headquarters spokesman said the Filipino soldiers, a group of about 4,000 still would go to Korea as soon as transportation was available.

Defense Secretary Ruperto Kangleon called the raids a "concerted" attack on the government. He warned that more hit-and - run raids can be expected.

The Huks have been increasingly active in murderous attacks against outlying districts where

VACATE KIGYE

Withdraw To Spot Nine Miles Northeast Of U. S. Supply Port Of Pohang

ONE ENEMY PENETRATION WIPED OUT IN THAT AREA

Eighth Army Headquarters in Korea, Sunday, Aug. 27—(AP)—South Korean units fighting along the east coast were forced out of Kigye last night, an Eighth Army spokesman said today.

The South Koreans withdrew to a road junction a few miles south and east of the city which is 9 miles northwest of the port of Pohang, second ranking U. S. supply port in Korea.

On the coast north of Pohang, other South Korean troops withdrew two miles to a point one half mile south of Hunghae.

Hunghae is eight miles north of Pohang.

Lt. General Walton Walker, commander of the 8th army and Lt. Gen. Earle Partridge, commander of the fifth airforce flew to the Pohang area today to check on the situation.

The Red penetration between the first and sixth South Korean divisions north of Taegu and east of Tabu has been wiped out.

Tokyo, Sunday, Aug. 27.—(AP)—North Korean Communists, beaten and bled in vain smashes at the central front, shifted their attack east Saturday and scored short gains against South Koreans on the right coastal flank of the United Nations beachhead in Korea.

In the center the Reds eased off after nearly a week of bloody but futile attacks down the "bowling alley" corridor from Kumhwa towards Taegu City, 21 miles south.

American officers said effectiveness of the three red divisions

AUTO PIONEER DIES IN MICH.

R. E. Olds, Who Developed 'Merry Oldsmobile' Victim Of Old Age Complications

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 26.—(AP)—R. E. Olds, 86-year-old automotive pioneer who developed the "Merry Oldsmobile" and later the Reo motor car, died today of the complications of old age.

His physician of many years, Dr. Dorothy Dart, said he put up "a game fight" until yesterday when he sank into a coma.

Olds was a one-time farm youth who gave the world its first practical low priced automobile. His Oldsmobile predated Henry Ford's first model by a year.

The automobile pioneer marked his 86th birthday on June 3 and was alert, genial, and energetic to the day he was stricken with his last illness.

He had not been associated with the automobile industry for many years prior to his death, but he always retained his interest in it.

A wealthy man, Olds' business interests in his latter years were mainly in large real estate holdings — hotels, apartment houses, and office buildings in various parts of the country.

British Exports To Soviet Suitable To Repair Tanks

London, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Winston Churchill declared tonight that a British factory is turning out tools for the Russians suitable for the repair of tanks. The ministry of supply quickly conceded that several British machine tool manufacturers are turning out products for Russia.

Churchill said Russian inspectors are admitted into the plant. A ministry of supply spokesman said this was true in all the plants engaged in making tools for the Russians.

"Fancy going on like this while everything is getting worse, and when we are literally begging the United States for aid in every form," Churchill asserted. The charge came in a political broadcast in which he accused the labor government of "infirmity and disconnection of thought and action in shaping defense plans."

He based his statements on information from officials of one of the tool manufacturing plants.

The United States has banned a long list of strategic materials from shipment to Russia and her satellites. The same ban has been applied to nations receiving United States aid.

The United States this week revealed that a British firm transshipped 50 tons of American molybdenum — a bright metal used for hardening steel — to Russia. Another 150 tons scheduled for shipment here was stopped.

The British board of trade asserted the deal was legal but admitted "the United States government is investigating this case."

A spokesman for the board of trade said Britain applies strict export controls and has drawn up its own blacklist of strategic materials for shipment to Communist countries.

It sends such things as steel, electrical equipment and generators under a wartime act.

Churchill said the head of Craven brothers machine tool works at Stockport, Britain's second largest machine tool firm — "informed me that he had for more than two years asked the government

Last Major Crisis For U. N. In Korean War May Be Over

By Don Huth

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters in Korea, Aug. 26.—(AP)—United Nations fighting forces in Korea have successfully passed what may be their last major crisis in the battle against the Korean Reds.

The defensive victory of American and South Korean forces over the Reds plunging southward toward the strategic city of Taegu may mark the final critical test by allied units before their war machine shifts into its offensive gear.

There should be more defensive battles to fight to keep American and South Korean lines stable. There may be short withdrawals to strengthen the perimeter if Red pressure is exerted on any sector.

The Taegu triumph, which stopped the Reds cold after they had pushed within 12 miles of the city, dealt the North Koreans their third serious blow in as many weeks.

It is one of the significant turning points of the war.

It has won more valuable time for the United Nations to add to their growing forces. It has blocked the North Koreans at a sector of the line where they had massed their greatest troop concentration for a determined drive to crack the allied wall.

The "fire department" phase—when U. N. troops rushed from spot to spot along the front—may be over before the Reds can mount another breakthrough attempt.

The breathing space the defense has won may allow time to strengthen the American and South Korean lines sufficiently to spike any further Red thrust before it gets rolling without weakening any sector.

Three important North Korean attempts to breach the present line have been made since the defenders completed their withdrawal behind the winding Naktong river Aug. four:

1—The Reds swept easily down the west coast, then wheeled eastward and plunged within 40 miles

To Strip Power To Invoke Controls Called 'A Bad Mistake'

Washington, Aug. 26. —(AP) —A house democratic leader today predicted senate - house agreement next week on a compromise to keep authority for wage-price-rationing controls in the proposed home front mobilization law.

Rep. Spence (D.-Ky), chairman of the house banking committee, said it would be "a bad mistake" to strip the anti-inflation measure of power to invoke such controls.

The possibility that might happen arose yesterday when a senate-house conference committee deadlocked over the issue of whether to give President Truman a free hand to put wage-price curbs and rationing into effect.

The conference group is trying to work out differences between separate economic controls bills passed by the two branches of congress.

Spence, chief of the house conferees, said he disagrees with senate suggestions that elimination of wage-price-rationing authority might be the only way to smash the deadlock.

Both the senate and the house bills also provide for control of consumer credit and new construction real estate credit, for allocation of scarce industrial materials and assignment of defense production priorities, and for a big federal loan program to spur defense output.

The major difference between the two measures deals with wage-price-rationing curbs.

The house bill would let the president invoke the controls on a selective basis, in advance of any general-program.

The senate would require Mr. Truman to put wage-price controls into effect at the same time, if at all, and virtually across-the-board.

Commissioner Announces Important Session To Be Conducted

Cub leaders of the central Boy Scout district of the Ouachita Valley Council will meet together for their August Cub leaders' roundtable Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Ouachita Parish Courthouse in Monroe. A. C. Lea, central district commissioner, has announced that this is a very important session for all cub leaders and all leaders in the district have been invited to attend. Those invited include cub masters, den mothers, and pack committeemen.

Leaders attending the meeting Monday night will receive their 1950-51 program notebooks and program planning charts. There will be a special discussion on these books as they are issued to each pack. This discussion will include the use of the program notebook and chart in planning the yearly program, and highlights of the Ouachita Valley Council and central district program are to be brought out. Special events to be included in the next year will be a cub leaders' pow wow, a Cub-o-ree, and training courses for den mothers, cubmasters, and den chiefs.

The meeting will also have a handicraft period led by Mrs. A. R. DeLand. There will also be a new ceremony demonstrated and new ideas given in cub den and pack operation. The September Cub Scout theme will be discussed and reports are to be received on activities carried out during the summer in all dens and packs.

ISRAEL PUSHES FARM PLAN

Tel Aviv, Israel—(AP)—The national conference of Israeli farmers is backing the government's plan to double the area under cultivation by 1953. The scheme, part of the government's four-year economic recovery program, calls for increasing the total arable land from 700,000 acres to 1,250,000 acres.

Meetings Are Held By Two Cub Packs

Members of Cub Scout Pack 29 and their parents assembled at Bernstein Park Friday afternoon for their regular meeting. As a special feature, a wiener roast was included in the day's activities.

Pets of the Scouts were exhibited in an impromptu pet show, which included almost every variety of personal animal from goldfish to toads.

New member of the pack Bob Lowry received his Bobcat award at the meeting, and the following Cubs were advanced: Doxie Reitzell was promoted to Lion, Tommy Poulon and Billy Cornett were advanced to Wolf.

Pack 34

Thursday night members of Cub Scout Pack 34 held their August meeting at the First Methodist Church.

Johnnie Le Vasseur opened the cub scout promise, and Cub-meeting with a recitation of the master Lea, in a brief talk, stressed the importance of the new lines that were added recently to the Promise.

Harold Hunt, Jr., a new member, was welcomed into the pack and received his Bobcat pin. His mother, a new den mother of the pack, officially pinned the insignia on him in an impressive ceremony.

Duke Hart was awarded the Gold Arrow Point on his Wolf Badge.

Following the showing of the film "The Cub Scout in The Home" the pack adjourned until the next meeting, scheduled for Sept. 21.

RATIONING LAW HAS TEETH

Tel Aviv, Israel.—(AP)—Housewives who buy foodstuffs from black marketers are getting stiff sentences in Israel's anti-profiteering courts. One Tel Aviv woman was fined $700, with the alternative of three months in jail, for buying meat without ration coupons.

POPE WORSHIPS AS A PILGRIM

Recites Prayers He Himself Prescribed For 1950 Jubilee

Rome, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Pope Pius XII worshipped as a Pilgrim today in three of the four Roman churches which Catholics must visit to obtain the holy year indulgence—remission of the church's penalty for sin.

At St. John Lateran, St. Mary Major and St. Paul's Outside-The-Walls the pontiff recited the prayers he himself prescribed for the 1950 jubilee. He had previously made his holy year visit to St. Peter's, the fourth Pilgrim church.

The pope drove to the churches from his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo in a big black cadillac, escorted by 10 policemen on red motorcycles. Crowds estimated to total 100,000 cheered his progress through the streets.

A squadron of the papal noble guard knelt and presented arms as the pontiff arrived at St. John Lateran. This basilica is the pope's seat in his capacity as bishop of Rome.

Stepping from his car, the pontiff raised a hand to bless the crowd. The blue stone in his Episcopal ring glittered in the hot August sun.

In the church the pope recited three times the "Our Father," the "Hail Mary" and "Glory Be to the Father" as prescribed for the holy year. He then repeated each prayer for his intention and intoned the apostle's creed.

From St. John Lateran, the procession moved to St. Mary Major, where Pope Pius celebrated his first mass 50 years ago.

The greatest crowd—about 20,000—waited at St. Paul's Outside-The - Walls. Among them were American students from every state in the union. The throng shouted "viva il papa"—"long live the pope."

The pontiff appeared at ease and rested as he read the prayers from the "Pilgrim's Book" held in his folded hands.

About 2,000,000 persons have made similar pilgrimages since the holy year opened last Christmas Eve.

We Have A Chance, If

There's a growing conviction that the chances of reactivating Selman field have become brighter since the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce announced the possibility about a month ago.

Shortly after the United States sent troops into Korea, a number of military observers stimated that the war would "last until November." Developments have proved how wrong they were; strength of the North Koreans (and Soviet aid) was grossly underestimated.

Now the "guesses" vary. President Truman, who seems to be the most optimistic of all the prognosticators, says we will have conquered the Reds by March 15. Others say it will take much longer.

The draft has been stepped up, the Marines have gone in, the reservists are being called up and army installations—infantry, cavalry and air force—are being reactivated. And more will be opened as the necessity arises.

IF new air fields are needed for training purposes—and we sincerely hope that the war will end sooner than all of us think—then Selman field is ideally situated and could be readily equipped for the emergency. It doesn't necessarily have to serve as a navigation base, as it was during World War II.

There's another IF. Selman field will not be reactivated unless the people of Monroe want it. Many, many communities have sought these installations, and unless we speak up with a loud voice, we'll be overlooked.

We cannot urge too strongly that we go after this project in a united effort to convince Washington that we have a first class field here, that building and repairing housing requirements will not be a major problem and that we want Selman reactivated.

A telegram or a letter to our Congressional delegation, as well as other contacts in Washington, will have its effect if we act at once.

'Big Lie' Propaganda

Russia's most potent weapon in its long-range war to crush democracy throughout the world and replace it with a dictatorship of world communism is neither its overwhelming military strength, its atom bomb, nor it geographical position. It is the BIG LIE.

It is the same weapon devised and used so successfully by Nazi Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, but greatly refined and given vaster currency because Stalin has at his command not only Moscow's own propaganda experts, but those in satellite countries plus thousands of secret agents and credulous dupes within all non-Communist nations.

The Big Lie's success depends upon one thing and one thing only—constant, never-ending, hammering repetition. If no contradictory voice is raised, so much the better.

How successful the Red propagandists have been with this is pointed up by a recent discussion with members of a group of 10 Austrian journalists now touring this country under the auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation, the University of Missouri School of Journalism and the state department. These men, outstanding in their field, are highly experienced, with more than average education and cultural background.

Yet even they came here with certain ideas about the United States that puzzle an American. For instance, during their week's stay in Cleveland, they watched operations in a large brokerage house. Some of them were amazed to learn that our big corporations have literally millions of stockholders, most of them just ordinary people in workaday jobs like themselves.

As one of them put it: "I always thought that a few big shots—15 or 20, maybe—held all the stock and grew rich on the profits. Well—you see—we get so much of that Communist propaganda."

The visitors also were impressed with the degree of culture they found in this country. One of them wistfully spoke of the fact that there are few American communities too small to have a public library. One suspects here the hammering of another Communist Big Lie—that Americans are barbarians, concerned with nothing more intellectual than grubbing for a dollar. The visitors had other misconceptions.

It makes an American wonder how naive a grown man can be. But these Austrians are not naive—far from it. They just heard too much of the Big Lie and not enough of the Big Truth. And if they swallow the Big Lie, how easily must it go down with the average European man-in-the-street and the ignorant peasant?

No, it is we Americans who are naive. We are naive enough to believe that because we, ourselves, know how things are here, everybody else in the world must know it, too. We are naive enough never to wonder why the rest of the world doesen't know the truth, without stopping to reflect that the most insistent informants it has are Moscow-serving propagandists.

Experience with these Austrian newspapermen makes one realize that the Russians can give us cards and spades in propaganda and walk off with the pot. It underscores once again the vital necessity of expanding and improving our propaganda agencies to the point where the Big Truth will paint the picture of American-style Democracy and the Big Lie will be retired from Russia's arsenal as an obsolete weapon.

Iowa is a place where the tall corn grows, but this year we hear there's some competition in Washington.

The trouble is, people who lose their tempers find them—only to lose them again.

WALTER WINCHELL

By Jack Lait

(Walter Winchell is on vacation)

They say there is no such thing as a perfect murder. I don't mean a killer escaping. I mean a deliberate, premeditated murder which leaves the perpetrator immune from punishment.

Let us set up the plot:

A physician, tiring of his office nurse, to whom he had not always been cold, contrives a way to get rid of her forever.

She is a habitual alcoholic. She has stolen his liquor repeatedly and he is sure she would in any opportunity.

He announces he is going away on ajourney, to be gone 48 hours.

Before he leaves, he pours a rare, synthetic poison into a bottle of booze, which he locks into the cabinet of his desk. The keys he throws into a pigeon - hole above, under the roll-top section, which is open.

He has scarcely departed before she gets the keys, unlocks the compartment, swallows a fatal slug of the booze.

She has thus trespassed on his private preserve and pilfered his private property.

As a licensed physician he has procured the poison legally.

He has taken the customary precaution of locking in the doctored liquor, into which he had poured a dose of the poison to make an experiment—see the chemical reaction of the combination and analyze it after a given time.

He has in no way suggested to her that she drink any of it. He has committed no criminal carelessness or negligence, having locked up the bottle where it would be sure against anyone except a thief in an act of larceny.

The nurse has been found dead on the office floor, the cabinet open, the bottle, uncorked, on the absent physician's desk.

Has he killed her? Or has she killed herself?

Was it up to him to presume that she would steal his liquor?

If so, how would an indictment be phrased?

Even if "malice aforethought" could be established, a motive proven, what was the "overt act," germane to a charge of murder?

And when had he committed it—when he poisoned the bottle, when he planted it, when she purloined and drank of it in his absence?

Indictments must be specific. They must give a date and they must allege that the defendant did 'then and there" do something which took a human life.

A phychological deduction whereby he anticipated that she would be weak and that she would yield to an uninvited, unsuggested temptation to steal is hardly a technical act of murder.

This was a mature woman, not an irresponsible child, to safeguard whom a reasonable man must exercise every sane caution.

This was a trained woman, taught to weigh the consequences of drinking from any bottle, especially an unsealed one, the contents of which might have been contaminated.

If the physician denied he had put the poison in the bottle, which no one had seen him do, the presumption would be with him, he could not be found guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

But, if he admitted it, by what chain of irrefutable logic could it be demonstrated that he knew she would drink the stuff. He did not know. He could not have known. At worst, he could have surmised that she might—that she might rob his desk, that she might steal some of the liquid.

Morally, he would be a murderer. He had the intent. He prepared a situation which cost the woman her life.

But legally, a freshman lawyer could shoot the case against him apart.

A layman might by some stretch be convicted, because the necessary procurement of the poison would require for him some extraordinary, perhaps illegal process, strongly pointing to a design for death. But a physician may do so in the conventional course of his work, part of which may be experimentation and research.

Since he had returned voluntarily and on schedule, there would be no corollary evidence of flight, concealment or, of course, covering up, or attempting to so do, any facts.

I have set this set of circumstances up before several lawyers. They sniff and sneer, but they soon admit they could not draw up an indictment that would "stick." They say the physician "ought" to be convicted — but they can't say how he could be.

Billy Rose:

PITCHING HORSESHOES

BLANKETY-BLANK

Because I sometimes tote around more than two dollars, and because my house has demonstrated a tendency to get burgled, I have a license to carry a revolver—and sometimes do. But I certainly hope I never get into a spot where I have to use it, because I doubt whether I could hit the back wall of a brewery if I were twenty feet away.

And it isn't because I haven't practiced a-plenty. There's a makeshift pistol range back of my house up at Mt. Kisco, and over the years I guess I've used up enough ammunition to keep a small Balkan war going. But no matter how carefully I sight and squeeze the baby gun with the short nose, I've never been able to do much more to the bullseye than glare at it. And two will get you twenty that most of the Dead-eye Dicks you read about can't do much better.

The U. S. Army evidently agrees with me about the difficulty in handling this tricky bit of mechanism effectively. Next time you see newsreel closeups of the kids who are doing the fighting in Korea, look closely and you'll see they're armed with rifles — Garands and Browning automatics — but about the only place you'll see a six-gun will be in the holster of a two-star general.

I first learned that expert shooting with a revolver is more bull than bullseye when I moseyed down to Ft. Worth fourteen years ago to stage that city's Centennial Exposition. One of the whooptydos I put on, "The Last Frontier," was a wild west show, and the cast included the best hoss hands in the business—Galahads in ten gallon hats who had won prize money in every rodeo from Pendleton to Madison Square Garden. Naturally, I wanted to include an exhibition of pistol shooting ,and as a charter member of the Zane Grey Club I figured that almost any one of my broncobusters could pop a clay pipe out of a girl's mouth at 30 feet.

Well, I figured wrong. There was no one in the cast who could hit the pipe without taking the mouth with it, and I wound up having to import the national pistol champion — a skinny kid from Brooklyn who had learned his marksmanship in a Coney Island shooting gallery.

This ineptness with what Damon Runyon used to call "the equalizer" is even more common among gangsters. Sure, the hoodlums of the '20's pistoled many a citizen, but almost invariably the victim was in a motor car, and the range a couple of inches from the nape of his neck. Whenever the corpse-to-be figured to be more than a few feet away, the killers used sawed-off shotguns with a three-foot spread, or tommyguns which produced a spray like a garden hose.

A few years back, an ex-bootlegger — now vice president of a national whiskey company — told me a story about Al Capone which illustrates my point. It seems Al was tipped off that one of his bodyguards was playing footsie with a rival gang, so he threw a banquet for 200 of his hired help, and after the feed made some complimentary remarks about the double-crosser and asked him to get up on the table and take a bow. As the guest of honor was bowing, the 200 hoodlums reached for their rods and let him have it. But when Capone — always the good bookkeeper — counted the bullet holes, he found only twenty in the carcass — 180 of the triggermen had missed.

Years ago, I used to haunt the 42nd Street shooting galleries, and got so handy with a .22 rifle that I could knock the dancing celluloid ball off the stream of water five times out of ten. And I was plenty cocky about my marksmanship until one day when I went up to see Ben Hecht at his place in Nyack.

Hecht, fed up with my big talk about small arms, suggested I shoot it out with Charlie Lederer, the screen writer, who was spending the week end with him.

"I've got nothing against Lederer," I said modestly. "Let him live."

"The target will be a tomato can at ten feet," said Ben, "and you and Charlie can take turns with my .22 automatic pistol."

We went out on the lawn and Lederer, sighting carefully, hit the can two out of three times. I didn't even nick it.

Last month while vacationing in Hollywood, I lunched with Hecht and reminded him of the debacle which ended my career as a marksman.

"I might as well have been shooting blanks," I said.

"As a matter of fact," grinned Ben, "you were."

OUR CHILDREN

MANNERS AND MORALS

Children acquire manners before morals. They learn words before they understand the implications of the words. They learn to act before they are able to think out the consequences of their acts to themselves and others. For children to learn manners, memorize a moral code, act according to accepted custom and law is basic to useful, wholesome education.

"Trudy, excuse yourself for walking in front of Granny. You know you should always pass behind people if possible. You could have gone behind Granny's chair."

"Oh, she's too little to know," somebody says in defense of the child. "She'll learn when she is older."

Not likely. The time to teach children good manners, right ways, consideration for others, is when they are beginning to live actively with others. Once their habits of association with people are set they are set, and any attempt to change them means a struggle against odds.

There are people who say, and act in accordance, "Manners are superficial. They make hypocrites of people" That is no answer. When children are taught to be mannerly their attitudes are going to be friendly. They cannot learn good manners without learning to consider other people's comfort and feelings. Good manners breed good morals.

Morality is an adult conception of the good life. Children are not born with it. They have to learn it by experience and good manners is the place to begin that teaching. Every action leaves a trace in memory. Traced often enough, it leaves a habit and it is upon these habits that good manners and moral behavior are built.

Words help too. What father and mother and teacher say as they teach makes an impression on the child's mind. The good words they learn as they memorize proverbs, maxims, the Ten Commandments the Beatitudes, the moral codes taught in school, church and allied societies such as the Y's, the Scouts, the Campfire Girls, will in time function in their lives. First they are taught good manners, then the right words as guides. Experience illumines the words and they are "clothed with flesh." They govern behavior. The Golden matter, becomes the guiding influence in their lives.

It takes a lifetime to arrive at this point, so we must start early and teach the little ones good manners.

In Washington With

BASCOM TIMMONS

Washington is slowly beginning to realize that neither the Truman administration, the news correspondents nor Congress itself had any comprehensive idea of the goings-on here in the period immediately after World War II.

The conviction of Alger Hiss set off a chain reaction which is still in progress. But the surprising thing is that most of us "in a position to know" have watched so much and done so little. Only in this year of 1950, five years after the end of the European and Pacific wars, has the conviction come home that Communist infiltration of high posts in the United States government was much more extensive than official Washington (or those who write about it) realized.

Even those who now claim that they knew it all along admit that their suspicions were directed more at Communists in labor organizations than in government. Unquestionably, the organization which knew most was the FBI. But the very circumstances under which it operates (a government agency investigating government officials) makes the task of J. Edgar Hoover particularly difficult.

And that brings up a case just as strange as that of Alger Hiss—the case of the late Harry Dexter White, once director of monetary research for the U. S. treasury, who died of a heart attack shortly after a heated exchange with the house un - American activities committee, at which he emphatically denied he was a Communist.

White had drafted the "Morgenthau plan" for control of post-war Germany, which would have changed that country from an industrial to an agrarian nation. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, who accepted White's advice at every turn, was accused of letting his hatred for Germany and its treatment of Jews influence him in crafting the plan. Actually he had nothing to do with it.

It may be considered unfair to talk about a dead man, who was never convicted of any subversive activity, but this also can be stated, and it will not be denied. In top FBI circles, there are skilled investigators who believe that Harry Dexter White was a leader of "the little group of American Communists who drafted initially the postwar program for Germany" — a more important figure than Alger Hiss.

The agrarian program first proposed by White corresponded closely to the program the Reds are now enforcing in Eastern Germany, after carting off most of its industrial equipment to Russia. While he was in charge of the introduction of occupation currency into the allied section of Germany, there appeared almost simultaneously identical currency printed in Russian occupied East Germany and from plates which experts were convinced were made from the same set of dies—and those dies, of course, were made at the United States Bureau of Printing and Engraving in Washington. That trick, it will be recalled, caused terrific confusion and at one time was costing the United States government $1,000,000 a day to block distribution of the Russian counterfeit.

When the "pumkin papers" which figured conspicously in conviction of Alger Hiss were turned up by Whitaker Chambers, they included letters in White's handwriting, which was strange, because White was in a different department than Hiss and would have had to transmit the letters to Hiss.

White handled more international monetary deals than any man in history, it is figured here—even more than the Morgan banking firm, because he represented the U. S. government in all the post-war monetary parleys — but only people skilled in finance are qualified to say just how his shrewd operations influenced those assemblages.

He was as mysterious as Europe's Sir Basil Zahranoff, sometimes called the leading international banker between the world wars, or Ivan Kruger, the Swedish match king. Nobody has ever been able to locate a birth certificate for a person of his name, though one biographical sketch says he was born in Boston in 1892, then says that he did not decide on "an academic career" until his early twenties. He was supposed to be of German or Polish origin, but there is nothing in the immigration records about his family. "Who's who" gives no birthplace, no background, simply starts him off as an economist, with a PhD. from Harvard in 1930.

Shortly after he appeared before the un - American activities committee, he went to Mansfield Vt., since identified as a community much favored by Communists and fellow travelers. There he was found dead on Aug. 16, 1948, with an empty bottle that had contained digitalis tablets beside him. He was buried before sundown of the same day, with no coroner's inquest, no auotpsy. And the FBI files are still closed. It's not that they want to be mysterious, but you can't do anything about a dead man.

Charles B. Driscoll:

New York Day By Day

New York—Five men are kept busy, the year around, painting and repairing mail boxes iin New York. I talked to one of the painters at his work today. I am perhaps abnormally interested in anything that has to do with the mail service. In childhood I was taught to respect the mailman as one respected the priest, the minister, the policeman, or the mayor.

Have you ever noticed that the mail boxes in your town are kept painted, and in good repair?

Notice, too that the heavy coat of new paint goes over the old coats without chipping or smoothing. So that very old mail boxes have rough coats.

This, my painting friend told me, is because the department makes no allowance for the time required for chipping off old paint. The oldest boxes you may see are likely to show 20 or more coats of thick paint in some spots, but only two or three in others.

A painter in New York is expected to repaint 30 boxes a day. If all five men turn in that kind of a day's work, 150 boxes will be freshened up each day.

But repairing is even more important than painting. You might not think that such a simple thing as a mail box would require repairing.

The large package boxes, and some of the newer letter boxes, are made of sheet steel. They last well. The old letter boxes are made of cast iron, one of the most lasting of all forms of metal in such installations as underground water pipes.

But cast iron boxes do not stand up well under assault by trucks, runaway cars, or falling wreckage in a storm.

So a repair crew is kept busy. The government never replaces a mail box because of age or obsolescence. If the box can be repaired it is kept on the job—forever, if that word means anything in this world.

Why is it, then, that the visitors to midtown Manhattan seldom see such ancient cast iron mail boxes as they might see, for instance, in Dover Del.?

Simply because the Manhattan boxes are more often knocked off or destroyed by accidents, such as a misdirected lunge of a car or truck.

Since the Truman curtailment of mail service, hundreds of storage boxes have been added in Manhattan and adjacent areas.

These also require painting and servicing. They are of steel, and stand wear very well.

Each box is supposed to get one new coat of paint each year. That is adequate to prevent destruction by rust. But any navy man would abhor the practice of painting without first chipping off the old paint. The P. O. department finds the old custom workable and economical.

A standard heavy green paint is used. The painter carries a bucket, about the size used to slop the hogs, with him. It is full when he starts his day's work. A wide brush is used, and the painter works fast. Nothing fancy or artistic in his job.

The painter carries in his pocket a handful of "Fresh Paint" signs. He hangs one on each finished job. The signs are never removed, unless by a carrier who gets tired of looking at them.

I just thought you might like to hear about a phase of our P. O. service that is easily overlooked by the customers.

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

MILITARY TRAINING

A large plurality of editors favor a standby Universal Military Training program, to be initiated as soon as the requirements of the Korean war will allow the armed forces to do so. A small minority argues that the Korean situation is only a small part of the possible crisis we face, and that a UMT program should be initiated immediately. But a rather large minority of editors continue to oppose or question the principle and value of the UMT idea, and insist that the Korean war should not cause hasty adoption of such a long-range measure.

Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal (Ind.): "The Defense Department has asked Congress for legislation which will enable it to inaugurate a universal military training program as soon as the armed forces are in position to give it supervisory attention. . . . The need for UMT . . . has been proved by two world wars, the Korean war and by the repeatedly proved inadequacy of the voluntary system."

Youngstown (Ohio) Vindicator (Ind.-Dem.): "Secretary Johnson . . . suggested that Congress leave the effective date to the President's decision—presumably after the Korean war. . . . Nobody knows how long the Korean war will last; certainly six months is a minimum estimate. But we cannot afford to wait another half-year before beginning to mobilize our manpower. . . . The Korean war is only a sideshow in the world situation. . . . Perhaps reserve officers who are unfit for combat duty could be called up for the training job."

Washington (D. C.) Star (Ind.): "The Defense Department says there are not enough instructors now to take on UMT in addition to the draftees. But it would be prudent to have standby authority ready on the books when the program becomes feasible. . . . The psychological effect on Russia and her satellites undoubtedly would be considerable. . . . The case for UMT is as strong today as it was when the President proposed it in 1945. . . . Many of the young men being drafted today would be better able to enter their Army career if they had had preliminary basic training."

Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch (Ind.): "What has universal military 'raining got to offer that a service measure could not offer more promptly and more efficiently? A million youngsters a year with time only to grow into their uniforms, learn the pretty but useless close-order drill formations and absorb the surface markings of military 'discipline' such as saluting superiors properly is a far cry from what America will be needing in the future. . . . UMT could very easily mislead the nation into a false sense of security, for inherently it is political in nature rather than military."

Washington (D. C.) Post (Ind.): "Selective Service has now been invoked to meet an emergency situation. But certainly universal training, which recognizes the common defense obligation of all citizens, would be a far fairer method of meeting armed forces requirements than the draft as it was used spasmodically in peacetime. . . . As Secretary Johnson stated . . . UMT is 'the only means of providing on a continuing basis sufficient numbers of men for the reserve forces.' "

Tampa (Fla.) Tribune (Ind.-Dem.): "Before World War II France had compulsory military training for not one year, as proposed here, but for two years. The French regular army of about 700,000 was quickly swelled to 4,000,000 from the ranks of these reserves when war threatened.. .. But everybody knows what happened to the French army. Hitler's highly - trained, better-equipped professional forces crushed it."

Norfolk (Va.) Ledger - Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "UMT was never intended as a means of providing military manpower for immediate service. It was intended to build up a reservoir of partly trained military manpower on a long-range basis. . . . It will serve notice that, after Korea, we will not propose again to depend upon volunteers or upon the draft, with all the lost motion that derives from its emergency character. . . The sooner we take this stand the better."

Chicago Tribune (Ind.): "This is no time for long range military planning. . . . The moment calls for the greatest concentration possible upon the job immediately at hand. . . . Certainly the plan Secretary Johnson proposes is not so obviously sound that it can be adopted without devoting a great deal of time and thought to studying it in principle and in detail. Certainly it would be foolish to pretend that the proposed system does not invite in the long run the abuse of civilians and their liberties by the military."

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

THE SUPPLY CATALOGUE

It is absolutely essential that this country stop wasting its money. Nobody gains by that but contractors and speculators who unconsciously are wrecking our economy by inflationary rises in prices, particularly of war materials and foodstuffs. Those who engage in such practices are not legitimate businessmen, but thieves in the night, and should be treated as such.

Representative Jack Z. Anderson, of California, introduced a bill to make it possible for the government to establish a federal supply catalogue, a single uniform one for the armed services. Actually, it ought to be possible to have one supply catalogue for the entire government.

Congressman Anderson called attention to the Hoover commsision estimate that $40,000,000,000 could have been saved in World War II had there been less duplication in supply. War is, in essence, wasteful in supplies as in men and if lives can be saved, extravagant expenditure is justified. But when waste means nothing but waste, carelessness and selfish corruption, it is no more justified in war than at any other time.

He said that one single item has been designated by 1,100 names. This colloquy is aptly descriptive of the situation:

"Mr. Vinson. Because with 1,100 names, in one warehouse they would say 'Well, No. 44 is short,' while No. 44 might be carried in another warehouse as No. 52, and they had a great abundance of them. . . And therefore they would proceed to manufacture No. 44 in a certain warehouse when they have an abundance of No. 52, which is the identical, same thing, over in another warehouse. . . ."

Mr. Anderson then said:

"Because if one item is known by even 100 different names, that means 100 bins for the same article. It means 100 different pieces of paper work, perhaps in quadruplicate or quintuplicate or however many pieces of paper have to be handled in connection with the procurement assignment of this item to a branch of the armed services. So it isn't simply an obsolescence factor. It is in the duplication . . . and if one item is known by 1,100 different numbers, then it is costing the taxpayers of the country 1,100 times what it should cost."

The point must be made that the army, navy and air force deplore this extravagant waste. The legitimate businessmen oppose it as the varieties of blueprints and specifications and numbers produce confusion, inefficiency and increased costs. But congress needs to and has not yet passed a law making the federal supply catalogue a legal possibility.

Mr. W. A. Kelley, of the office of the secretary of defense, provided an excellent example of how bad cataloguing produces bad results. Every housewife knows what an extension cord is. She buys it in Woolworth's when she wants more cord to pull her bridge lamp into the center of the room. So, in our government, this becomes a problem. Let me quote:

"Mr. Kelley. They (extension cords) vary slightly. The point is that they have been designed to fill the same function. The items could have been taken and grouped together and analyzed and one item taken to fill the need for all these here. . . .

"Mr. Vinson. What is the difference between the engineers and ordnance, in the classification there? Read it off there. I can't read it.

"Mr. Kelley. The engineers' name for it is 'cord extension.'

"Mr. Vinson. Cord extension.

"Mr. Kelley. Yes, sir. They then go on with the description: 'with cap, guard and plug, hard surface, rubber covered, 25 feet,' and the number is '17-3592.500.025.'

"Then the ordnance come along with:

" 'Cord, light extension, 110-volt, heavy-duty, 2-conductor, oil-resisting, rubber-covered AWG No. 16, jute-filled cable length, 25 feet—' "

Mr. Anderson asked, after considerable descriptive conversation:

"And you would have that one description instead of having 10 different numbers for that item. there.

"Mr. Kelley. That is right.

"Mr. Anderson. It would be known by that top number only."

This goes on for several pages. So I went into an electrical equipment store and the salesman showed me types of extension cords. He had them all together, knew where they were, what the price was and where he could get more. If he wasted as much time as the government does over such an item, he would go broke. So could the government.

Thurman Sensing,

DOWN SOUTH

SOUTH AND 1950 CENSUS

Population figures gathered every ten years by the Federal government always reveal an interesting story. They show whether various localities or states have had a growth or decline in population. They show whether there has been a shift in the location of the people —whether they are moving from the city to the country or vice versa, or whether they are moving from one state to another or from one region to another. They really reveal a lot of human emotions, of likes and dislikes, of habits and customs and manners under a lot of dry statistics.

For statistical purposes, the Southern region is considered to comprise the sixteen states from Texas to Maryland, inclusive. This includes the border states of Oklahoma, Missouri, and West Virginia. It so happens that this is not a third of the nation's states, but it contains a third of the nation's area and a third of the nation's population.

This one-third population for the South has held good for many years, and we find little change during the last decade in this respect. These sixteen states contained 44,520,969 of the nation's 131,669,275 people in 1940, or 33.5%. The 1950 census shows that they contain 49,701,037 of the nation's 150,520,198 people, or 32.6%—a decline of .9%.

A comparison of the 1940 and 1950 population by states, showing the net change, is given in the table below:

	1940	1950	%	Chg.
Alabama	2,832,961	3,052,395	UP	7.7
Arkansas	1,949,387	1,900,246	DN	2.5
Florida	1,897,414	2,734,086	UP	44.1
Georgia	3,123,723	3,418,120	UP	9.4
Kentucky	2,845,627	2,931,588	UP	3.0
Louisiana	2,363,880	2,669,043	UP	12.9
Maryland	1,821,244	2,322,657	UP	27.5
Mississippi	2,183,796	2,171,806	DN	0.5
Missouri	3,784,664	3,924,220	UP	3.7
N. Carolina	3,571,623	4,034,858	UP	13.0
Oklahoma	2,336,434	2,230,253	DN	4.5
S. Carolina	1,899,804	2,107,813	UP	10.9
Tennessee	2,915,841	3,280,575	UP	12.5
Texas	6,414,824	7,677,060	UP	19.7
Virginia	2,677,773	3,247,781	UP	21.3
W. Virginia	1,901,974	1,998,536	UP	5.1
South	44,520,969	49,701,037	UP	11.6
U.S.	131,669,275	150,520,198	UP	14.3
Outside South	87,148,306	100,819,161	UP	15.6

One of the most noticeable features of this table is the fact that three Southern states have had a net loss in population — Arkansas, Mississippi, and Oklahoma. This was true of only five states in the nation, the other two being Nebraska and North Dakota. Also, for the region as a whole, it is to be noted that the South only gained 11.6%, while the nation was gaining 14.3%, or while the nation outside the South was gaining 15.6%.

There were wide variations of the net result within the South, running all the way from a loss in Oklahoma's population of 4.5% to Florida's gain of 44.1%. These variations caused considerable change in the population ranking of the Southern states. Texas, of course, retained first place, but North Carolina advanced to second place while Missouri took over North Carolina's third place spot. Georgia and Tennessee held steady in fourth and fifth places. Kentucky and Virginia swapped spots, Virginia advancing to sixth while Kentucky dropped to eight. Alabama held steady at seventh place. The biggest change was by Florida, which advanced from fifteenth place to ninth. Louisiana dropped from ninth to tenth, while Maryland jumped from sixteenth to eleventh. Oklahoma dropped from tenth to twelfth, and Mississippi dropped from eleventh to thirteenth. South Carolina held steady at fourteenth place, West Virginia dropped from thirteenth to fifteenth and Arkansas dropped from twelfth to sixteenth.

During the last few years, it has been estimated that there has been a considerable migration of the Negro population from South to other regions. If this is true, it would no doubt account for a good part of the changes mentioned above, both for the must await further census releases.

Statistics Prove Dividends In Air Power Over Korea

By Elton C. Fay

Washington, Aug. 26. —(AP)— New evidence that air power is beginning to pay definite dividends in the Korean war was offered this weekend by Pentagon officials.

They came up with reports and statistics which they said showed:

1. Air force planes in the first two months of the war took off more than 20,000 times to make direct or indirect sorties against the North Korean Communist enemy. This figure did not include other thousands of sorties flown by naval aircraft launched from American and British carriers roaming the coastlines of Korea.

2. The constant air bombardment of North Korea's factory cities is driving the enemy to disperse his war industries to the safety of "neutral" Manchuria, beyond the legal range of United Nations planes.

3. The toll of enemy dead on the battlefront as a result of aviation support of the hard-fighting and hard-pressed ground troops, is mounting.

Along with these reports of progress in the skies there was encouraging news of the battle on the ground.

Certain Pentagon officials (the nature of whose jobs require that they make cold, analytical assessment of the Korean fighting) summed up the situation at the weekend this way:

Things look better than at any time since the start of the war. The defense line is holding reasonably stable; some small, local advances have been made; the enemy is showing a few signs of weariness and under-supply; United States forces are growing constantly more battlewise.

But—and these officials emphasize the "but"—this doesn't mean that the battlefront troubles are all over, that there will be no more reverses. Nor does it mean a jump off soon for a big counter-offensive to crush the Communists and drive the survivors back north.

The prevalence of a less grim outlook among the real strategy-makers here followed the return Friday from the war zone of two members of the joint chiefs of staff. They are Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins and Chief of Naval Operations Forrest P. Sherman. The cautiously phrased words of satisfaction they expressed to reporters on stepping off their plane obviously have been elaborated upon in talks with their Pentagon colleagues.

Among other things, Collins was reported to have given high praise to the now veteran soldiers of the 24th infantry division, the first American ground force to join in the Korean war.

The 24th's infantrymen, along with those of the other divisions that have followed, now are seasoned soldiers. They have learned, sometimes at high cost in casualties, the little tricks of in-fighting that mark the difference between green troops and veterans.

In the first weeks of the war, American troops had trouble with enemy infiltration. Small units would find the enemy behind their backs, at their flanks, discover they were cut off. Reports brought back from Korea show that trouble is disappearing rapidly with experience.

Collins also praised the fighting qualities of the South Korean army and one army official here said today "we couldn't get along without them."

Eisenhower's address will be broadcast by the four major networks from 10:15 to 10:30 p. m. (EST) Sept. 4. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander in World War II and now president of Columbia University, is vacationing in Colorado.

Hedy La Marr Loses $250,000 In Jewels

New York, Aug. 26. —(AP)— Jewels owned by Film Actress Hedy LaMarr and valued at $250,000 were reported missing today.

The loss was reported by the management of the Hotel Sherry Netherland.

Disappearance of the jewels was discovered, police said, after Miss La Marr returned to her hotel room Thursday night after attending a show.

A small bag, in which she carried the gems, was open on a dresser table.

Police said the loss was not reported at first because Miss La Marr thought she might have left the jewels at her summer home in Southampton, N. Y.

Later she found she had not done so.

MISS SANDERS MEETS MARSHALL

Monroe Girl Confers With National Leader Of American Red Cross

According to her reports to her family, Pat Sanders, young Neville student from Monroe, who was one of more than twenty American Junior Red Cross members chosen for the trip, seems to be living a busy life on her present tour of Europe.

After a training period in Washington, during which the members of the delegation studied the Marshall Plan principles and practise and consulted with Gen. George C. Marshall, wartime army chief of staff and author of the world-help plan, Pat and her companions entrained for New York for the first step in their overseas voyage.

Shipboard life, according to the winsome Monroe girl, was even better than expected on the voyage to Europe. She praised the food, recreational facilities and comforts of the trip, but had to admit "we are truly very busy; we have classes twice a day on the boat."

This classroom like regime continued until the group reached their first port of call, Gibraltar. From there on, the members of the tour prepared for their land trip, which began officially when they disembarked at Naples. From there, the young American delegates travelled to Rome, where Pat reported "The Italian Red Cross treated us like royalty."

Rome weather notwithstanding (Pat reported it "terribly hot") the students made a complete tour of the historical sights, hitting all the high spots in their trip around the Eternal City.

From Rome the group took a train to Geneva, home of the international Red Cross offices. A whirlwind schedule of meetings, conferences and training sessions in the Swiss city left little time for the visitors to take in many of the sights, but reports to the Sanders family indicate that Pat is still enjoying the trip immensely.

Pat was chosen as one of the five members of the Junior Red Cross from the southeastern area to make the trip. She was the only delegate selected from Louisiana.

The trip, sponsored by the Children's Fund of the J. R. C., will conclude with a final meeting of the delegates in Copenhagen, immediately before they return to the United States in time for school.

The Japanese, who captured Hainan Island in World War II, extracted iron ore on a large scale there for the first time.

Two Yugoslav Soldiers Wounded On Border

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Aug. 26. —(AP)—The official newspaper Borba reported today a new series of "incidents" on the Albanian border in the cominform's cold war against Premier Marshal Tito's government.

The paper said two Yugoslav soldiers were wounded in the incidents, which occurred between July 1 and Aug. 7.

The ministry of foreign affairs registered a protest ,the paper said, but—instead of a reply—received only accusations from the Albanian Telegraph Agency and Cominform Press that Yugoslavia had "provoked" the incidents.

Customer Hits Jackpot On Ice Dispenser

Rahway, N. J., Aug. 26.—(AP)—A customer hit the jackpot last night on an ice-dispensing machine.

Police Sgt. Lawrence Coman said a plantive voice over the phone reported: "Hey, I put 15 cents in the machine for a piece of ice and now I can't stop it—the ice keeps coming out."

A radio car arrived at the scene to find some 20 pieces of ice littering the front of the White Ice and Coal Co. The unidentified customer had left with his ice. A company official shut off the machine.

In Hollywood With

JIMMIE FIDLER

Hollywood, Aug. 26. — Don't be surprised if Ava Gardner and Howard Duff take up where they left off. He's been paying secret visits to her at Laguna Beach, where she holed up after that big fight with Frank Sinatra in a Hollywood night club. . .Richard Long is just about to pop the question to Marshall Thompson's sister. . .Robert Taylor has been holding trans-Atlantic telephone consultations with Los Angeles doctors regarding anticipated surgery for his mother, Mrs. Ruth Brough, hoping to postpone the operation until his return from Italy in November.

Linda Darnell gave 20th Century-Fox officials a few frantic hours when she failed to arrive on a plane from the East as scheduled. A telephone call to New York revealed that she HAD boarded the ship, there, a few hours earlier. Finally, she was located in Chicago where she'd left the plane, suffering from a malady akin to ptomaine. After medical treatment, Linda caught a later flight, with no one in Chicago having been aware of her unscheduled visit. . . Dorothy McGuire asked for and received a release from her 20th Century contract.

Isn't Bruce Cabot already married to Francesca de Scaffa? Some of his friends think so. . .Warner Brothers, in a sudden switch of plans, are making arrangements to take the entire cast and crew of "Streetcar Named Desire" to New Orleans for two weeks of shooting in the famous French Quarter. It was originally scheduled to be filmed en toto on WB sound stages. . . .Ray Bolger is leaving the cast of "Where's Charley" on advice of his medicos.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of the week: 20th Century-Fox's "Mister 880" (Burt Lancaster - Dorothy McGuire - Edmund Gwenn). A lovable old counterfeiter (alias Mister S. Claus of "Miracle on 34th Street") promises to become the Public's No. 1 favorite character of 1950. . .GOOD: Thor Productions' "The Fireball" (Mickey Rooney - Pat O'Brien - Beverly Tyler). Mickey Rooney gives his finest performance in years, as an orphan who struggles to become roller - skating champion of the world, only to be struck down by polio. . .Warner's "Tea For Two" (Doris Day - Gordon MacRae-Gene Nelson). The "T" is for Technicolor Treat - tops in tunes and terpsichoring. . . .FAIR: Columbia's "The Petty Girl" (Joan Caulfield - Robert Cummings). As eye-appealing as it's namesake and, unfortunately, just about as "sketchy". . .BEST PERFORMANCE: Edmund Gwenn in "Mister 880".

The minute Jans Carter and the rest of the cast and crew of "Santa Fe" returned from their location site at Prescott, Arizona, Janis sat right down and wrote a thank-you note to all the Prescott townspeople, in care of the local newspaper. The editor not only published her letter, but wrote a whole editorial extolling Miss Carter for her thoughtfulness. It strikes me that Hollywood producers who are seeking a cure for what ails the boxoffice, might also remember her thoughtfulness, the next time they're in need of a leading lady. It's a sure cinch the people of Prescott won't forget it the next time one of her pictures comes to town.

A year ago, I would have said that Tony Dexter was just about the luckiest young man I knew. Not only had he been selected from the thousands of candidates to star in the life story of Rudolph Valentino, but he also had a brand new bride, his childhood sweetheart, to share his success. Today, Tony is about to complete this first movie, which promises to make him a big star. But things have changed quite a bit in the last few months. According to reports around Hollywood, the Tony Dexter of today is a far cry from that young man of a year ago who just couldn't believe his good fortune. The same people who used to be his boosters now say that success has gone to his head. His young wife has packed up and gone home to mother. If this is what a little taste of good fortune can do to him, I'm not so sure I consider him a very lucky young man, after all.

If Judy Garland isn't getting a new lease on life, since the release of her picture, "Summer Stock," it won't be the fault of the movie-going public. I can't remember when I've seen a more wholehearted "vote of confidence" than is currently being displayed in theaters around the country where the movie is playing - by the lines in front of the box office, the applause inside when Judy appears on the screen, and the warm-hearted comments being expressed by patrons as they leave. Such a mass demonstration of sympathy and moral support is the best possible tonic for a girl whose troubles stem mainly from a basic feeling of insecurity and fear of failure. Opponents Set By A Strategic Lead

By Oswald Jacoby

"You recently published a hand in your column that looks almost exactly like a hand we played out here a couple of months ago," writes a Portland (Ore.) correspondent.

"West opened the seven of spades, and declarer played dummy's queen. (This differs from the hand you published, in which declarer was able to let West hold the first rtick.)

"After winning the first trick with the ace of spades, East returned his singleton trump. Declarer put up the king, hoping that East held the ace as part of the strength for his bid. No guess would have helped South, since West had both the ace and the queen. West took his two top trumps and got out with a third trump.

"Nov South had no trumps in dummy to use for his losing clubs. He could discard one of them on dummy's king of spades but had to lose the other one.

"Somebody said that South could have made his contract by means of a squeeze but we can't quite see how East can be squeezed if West saves clubs.

"Can this hand be made?"

Yes, the hand can be made. As a mater of fact, it probably should be made by a careful declarer even if he cannot see all the cards.

South must play the trumps in such a way as to win the third round of trumps with dummy's eight. He should then cash the king of spades, discarding a low club from his hand. He ruffs the deuce of spades to enter his own hand. On this trick, West can afford to discard a low diamond.

South now leads his next-to-last trump. At this point West has four diamonds and three clubs. If West discards a diamond, declarer will discard dummy's remaining spade. He will then cash the top diamonds and ruff a diamond, setting up dummy's last card in that suit. The ace of clubs will enable him to cash the last diamond.

Since West cannot afford to discard a second diamond, he must discard a club. This leaves East with the only stopper in clubs. South should realize what the situation is and should discard a low diamond from dummy.

South then leads his last trump, discarding dummy's last diamond. He then cashes dummy's top diamonds, squeezing East. East can hold only three cards, of which one must be a spade to top dummy's six of spades. Since East can therefore hold only two clubs, declarer can cash the ace and king of clubs and win the last trick with the six of clubs.

DEATH RATE LOWER

London.—(AP)—The death rate in England and Wales in 1948 was the lowest ever recorded, but the cancer toll is increasing. The registrar general's statistical review of the year just published here shows deaths at 468,645, a rate of 11 per thousand of the civilian population and a decrease of 46,946 on the previous year. Previous lowest rate was 11.4 per thousand in 1930, when deaths numbered 455,427. Deaths from cancer accounted for 79,432, or 16.9 per cent, compared with 15.1 per cent in 1947 and 13.9 per cent in 1938.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

Never Give Up On A Hand

One of the most fascinating things about Canasta is the kaleidoscopic way the situation changes from play to play. For instance, consider this letter just received from a Chicago reader:

"In your column this morning, Mrs. J. R. S. wrote of the miserable hand she hald recently in a Canasta game. If she thinks that is bad, what about this one I held last night: Both sides needed 120. My hand was joker-A-K-Q-10-9-8-7-6-5-4.

"This wasn't the first time I held a hand like this, but last night I had what you called 'extraordinary luck.' The first card I picked was an eight, so then I had a pair. The second time, I picked a joker, but did not meld yet. The third time I picked up the pack, as an eight was discarded to me, and I melded a total of 130 points.

"As I said before, I had held many hands like the one above, but had never been lucky enough to match the right cards even when needing only 50 points. And what's worse, there wouldn't be any wild cards!—Mrs. N. J. R."

Of course the hand held by Mrs. R. was not a really bad one. Any time you are dealt one of the four jokers, your hand is not hopeless. Nevertheless, it was phenomenal that she was able to pair a card on her first draw, pick up a second joker a ther next turn and then on the very next play have the only card she could use discarded to her.

A New York reader asks the following question: "I needed 50 and melded 2-Q-Q-Q and 5-5-5. Before discarding, I wanted to shift the deuce over to the fives. My opponents refused to let me. Were they right?"

The answer is that they certainly were. Once a card is melded legally, it may not be shifted to another meld.

A wild card may be shifted to make an insufficent count sufficient. Suppose, for example, that the New York reader had melded 2-5-5-5 and only held two queens. In that case, she could put down the queens and move the deuce over since that would be the only way she could make the required count.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

OWL CALLED STUPID

Chicago—(AP)—The owl isn't so smart. Austin L. Rand, curator of birds at the Chicago Natural History Museum, grants that they make quite an impressive appearance. "But owls don't seem to have studied them find that the put up," he says. "People who have studied them find thatt he young are very slow to learn to feed themselves. One saw-whet owl that was kept captive refused to eat liver put into its cage, apparently not recognizing the meat as food. But when the liver was crammed into an empty mouse skin the owl ate it at once. "The crows and their relatives, the jays, are the birds that are really intelligent."

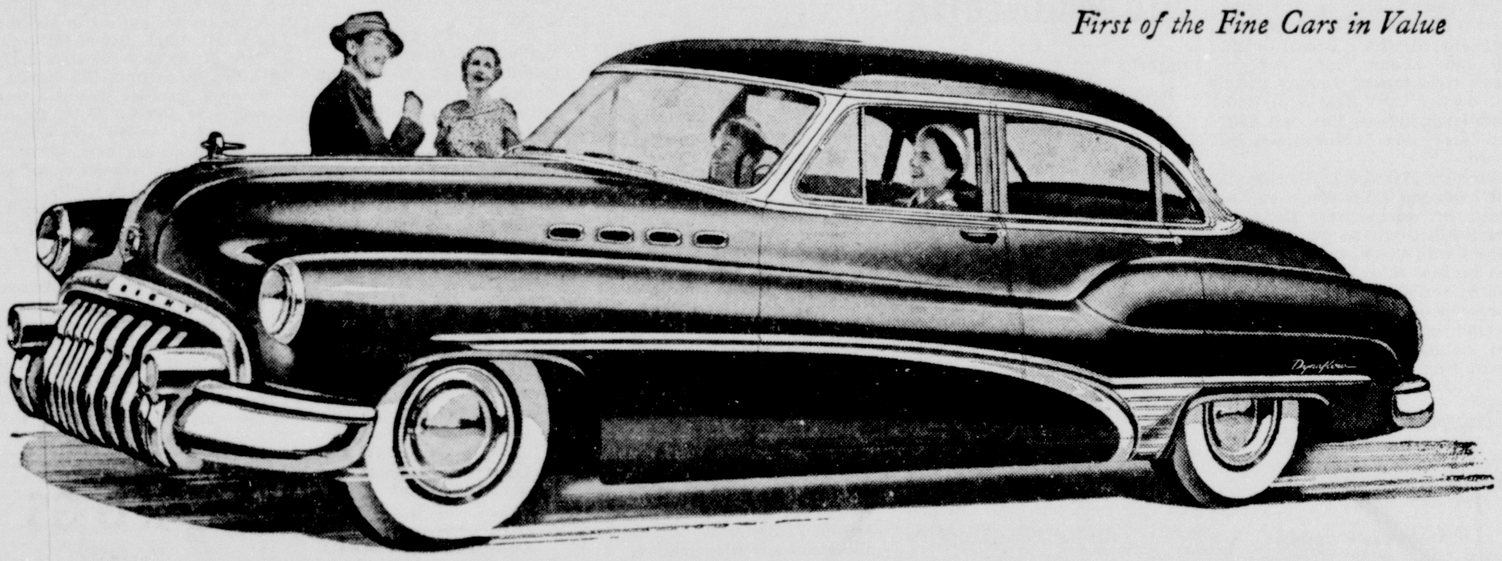
First of the Fine Cars in Value



little

Just how need a really fine car cost ?

YOU'LL find the answer written in the delivered price tags of this bold and strapping beauty pictured here.

It's a Buick ROADMASTER—and you have only to put yourself behind the wheel to see that it is truly fine by any yardstick.

But it leaves the factory carrying the lowest price per pound of any car in the fine-car field.

That means that the money that goes into its building goes for things that really count—

For a big, husky Fireball straight-eight engine of 152 hp and all the brilliance of performance the highways can handle—

For room that measures up with the biggest, and for comfort contrived of deep soft seats and abundant space for taking it easy—

For a ride that's literally "out of this world," soft and easy as only all-coil springing can make it, yet firm and steady always, thanks to torque-tube drive—

For handling that is feather-light, for the complete smoothness of Dynaflow Drive as standard equipment, for a whole host of fine-car touches such as rich upholstery materials, flexible-spoke steering wheel, non-glare rear-view mirror, even automatic windshield washers, all included in the price.

Yes, the big question ROADMASTER answers is not how much a really fine car costs, but how little you need to pay to get all that a fine car can give.

Drop in any time on your Buick dealer for a trial ride in a ROADMASTER—and the surprisingly happy news on its delivered prices.

MONROE HURLER IN EASY VICTORY OVER PINE BLUFF

Sports Take Series Opener From League Leaders 11 To 2

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Aug. 26. —(Special)— Cliff Coggin, the Athens, Ala., athlete who turned down a professional football career to pitch for the Monroe Sports, became the Cotton States League's first 20-game winner of the season here tonight as he coasted to an easy 11 to 2 victory over the league-leading Pine Bluff Judges.

The Sports, here for a three-game series, weren't hitting very much more oftener than the Judges, but the wildness of Pine Bluff hurlers who walked thirteen batters contributed to the defeat. Bob Picken, Dick Snyder, and Ted Gardner faced the Sports tonight with Picken being charged with the loss.

Carl Tucker highlighted the nine-hit Monroe attack with a home run while Skipper Al Mazur hit a triple and Leonard Morrison got two doubles and a single. Hal Bollinger, with two doubles, was the Judges' top slugger.

The win practically clinched a playoff spot for the Sports who can't finish worse than fourth if they should lose their remaining 13 games. The Greenwood Dodgers lost to Greenville tonight, leaving them 12 and a half games behind the Sports and with 12 games to play. The Sports would have to lose all their remaining games while the Dodgers won all theirs for the two teams to tie for fourth. Greenwood still could move into the playoff, however, if Hot Springs or Natchez runs into ill luck.

The regular season will end September 5. The first-round of the playoffs will pit the first place team against the fourth-ranking club and the second-placer against the third-placer. Playoff openers will be at the homes of the first and second place clubs. Both the first and final playoff rounds will be best-four-of-seven affairs.

Al Mazur, skipper of the Sports, opened the scoring when he tripled into center field in the second inning and scored as Virgil Bivens grounded out to shortstop.

Carl Tucker smashed his bases-empty homer in the third, and then the Sports rushed five runs across in the fourth in the command a 7-0 lead before the Judges could tally.

Allen Cross opened the big fourth with a single into right field. Mazur was safe on Bob Kurtz's error at third, and a single into center field by Sinclair Kouns sent Cross home, and put Mazur on third. Bivens rapped a grounder to Pickens. Mazur decoyed the throw to third and then romped home safely while Bivens reached first. Coggin bounced out to the mound, for the first out, but Tucker walked to load the bases. Jim Pace fouled out, but Leonard Morrison rammed a double against the fence, cleaning the bases, and was thrown out as he tried to stretch his hit into a triple.

The Judges finally tallied in the bottom of the fourth when Hal Bollinger doubled into left field and came the rest of the way on a single by Harry Chozen.

The Sports routed Picken in the fifth inning but failed to score as Snyder came in to put out the fire with the bases loaded and none out. Ray Coss and Cross had opened the inning with singles. Mazur walked and Pciken headed for the showers. Snyder forced Kouns to pop out to short, fanned Bivens and Coggin went down on a long fly to center.

Snyder was effective until the eighth inning when he gave up one hit and walked five batters before being relieved by Gardner. With one out Tucker and Pace drew walks. Morrison slammed another double into center field, scoring Tucker. Coss grounded out, and Cross was intentionally walked, filling the bases. Mazur and Kouns then worked Snyder for free passes, forcing home Pace and Morrison and sending Snyder to the showers. Gardner came in to walk Cross home as Bivens got a free pass, but Coggin, up for the second time in the inning, popped out to second for the third out.

The Judges salvaged a final unearned run in the ninth inning. After two were out, Cantrell was safe on an error by Tucker. Ronald Stuckmeyer doubled Cantrell to third and he came home on a single by Scarpace. Kurtz went down to end the game.

ANZACS CLINCH DAVIS CUP WIN

Australians Sweep 3rd Straight Match; U. S. Already Plans To Rebuild

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Australia clinched the Davis Cup today when John Bromwich and Frank Sedgman defeated the American pair, Ted Schroeder and Gardnar Mulloy, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4 for the Challengers' third straight victory.

Having swept yesterday's two singles without loss of a set, the Aussies needed only to take the doubles to complete an amazing triumph and carry the big tennis trophy back to the Antipodes.

It had been in this country since 1946, when an American team won five straight matches at Melbourne. The Aussies will have a chance to match that clean sweep in tomorrow's two concluding singles.

While they went down, as was more or less expected, Mulloy and Schroeder thrilled a crowd of 11,000 by battling the two Australians right down to the last ditch.

In the end the victory was decided only because the Aussies were able to break down Mulloy's service a single time in the fifth set. It was that close, a brilliantly played match filled with rallies that had the fans cheering wildly for minutes on end.

Like all fallen rulers the Americans are going to start rebuilding from the bottom.

STRANAHAN BOWS TO SAM URZETTA

Janitor's Son Beats Out Millionaire In National Amateur Finals

Minneapolis, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Sammy Urzetta, son of a Rochester, N. Y. janitor, won the U. S. Amateur Golf crown today on the 39th hole of the longest match ever played to decide the title.

His victime was Frank Stranahan, millionaire son of a millionaire father, who pushed his tee shot out of bounds on the 537-yard 39th hole and then gamely played out the hole in hopes of staying even with the 24-year old youth from New York.

"I knew I could get him," was all the affable Urzetta had to say as he started the long trek back to the clubhouse of the Minneapolis Golf Club where he was presented with the trophy. Stranahan said nothing.

They finished the hole with Urzetta getting a par five and Stranahan a six.

For the long day, Urzetta was even with the par of 71 while Stranahan was one over—the one blow that cost him the crown both he and his father had made it their purpose to win.

Papa Stranahan, wealthy Ohio automobile parts manufacturer was here to see his son lose. Papa Urzetta received the word of his boy's triumph by telephone.

G. CURTIS, MOBLEY TO MEET SEGURA, NACHA MARTINEZ

Mexican Champ Bringing In Cousin Of Famous 'Outlaw' For Match

Nacha Martinez, second cousin of Mexico's famous "outlaw," Pancho Villa, makes his first appearance on a wrestling card here Tuesday night when he teams with Bobby Segura, light - heavy champion of Mexico, in a tag team scramble against George Curtis and Rex Mobley.

Segura, loser in a title match with Champion Jack Curtis here last Tuesday night, had Martinez with him as a visitor and put the challenge up to Promoter Kallio to give them tag billing against "any opponents" of his choice.

Kallio sought out Jack Curtis, but the champion declined the invitation because of previous committments for Tuesday Jack, instead, suggested his brother George be in on the festivities, and Rex Mobley, who was present for the semi-final, quickly applied for a place against the Mexican duo.

Segura, in introducing Martinez to Kallio and putting in his bid for a relay match, touted Martinez as "one of the best wrestlers to come to the States from Old Mexico. . . a tough wrestler who is a second cousin of Pancho Villa, the most dangerous outlaw the Mexican government has ever known."

Mobley, in accepting the challenge with George Curtis, said, "I have tangled with several Mexicans before, so one more won' make much difference even if he is kin to some sort of outlaw That doesn't scare me a bit. George is tough, strong, and young and I think we'll be plenty able to take care of things."

The main event talent will take its introductory bows in a pair of one-fall preliminaries, beginning the night's program at 8:15 o'clock.

It's been a wonderful vehicle for my nieces who are visiting us this summer. I think the CROSLEY is a great buy, for in addition to the fact that it cost less than $1000 brand new and gets 35 to 40 miles per gallon on gasoline, I've found it to be very ruggedly built —with definite safety features.

Leonard Morrison Soars To Sixth Place In Cotton States Slugging

Blytheville, Ark., Aug. 26.—(Special)—Ben (Rosey) Cantrell, Pine Bluff's ol' reliable, answered the challenge of teammate Roland Stuckmeyer with a volley of base hits to regain the Cotton States League batting lead.

Blasting 15 hits in 34 times at bat during the week ending August 22, the Judge veteran picked up six points to regain the swat lead with an impressive .363.

Despite a loss of two points, Jack Ramm, Pine Bluff's star rookie, eased back into second position, with .351, but is getting quite a plate argument from Jim Gilbert, slugging Natchez outfielder, who threatens the all - Pine Bluff batting domination this season with .350.

Last week's leader, Stuckmeyer, ran into trouble and plunged 16 points to .342 with only seven out of 31. In fifth is Frank Scarpace, Pine Bluff, with .335, a gain of four points. Len Morrison, Monroe, zoomed 15 points with 27-11 for sixth at .332, followed by Chet Morgan, Clarksdale playing manager, 329; Dick Adkins, Natchez skipper, .327; Wally Buerger, Greenville, .326, and Jerry Lynch, Greenville, .324, for the upper 10 bracket of hitters.

The loop still does not boast a 20-game winner as Cliff Coggin, Monroe, and Adam Stempkowski, Pine Bluff, failed to increase their respective 18-game totals during the week. The Sports ace, did not participate in any games, while Stempkowski was thwarted by Greenwood, August 20.

Northeast Sticks To J. C. Football Slate This Year

REDSKINS OPENING FOOTBALL DRILLS HERE NEXT FRIDAY

Malone Says War Conditions Make Grid Prospects Uncertain

with banner NORTHEAST

James L. Malone, head coach and athletic director at Northeast Louisiana State College, the new name for Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. since recent legislation passed making it a four-year institution, yesterday declared the Indians "will definitely play as a junior college this year."

Although the school will be operating under its fourth name since first opening here in 1931, the machinery nessessary to set a four-year school in operation has not yet been completely installed and the Indians will campaign as a member of the new Big Six Junior College Athletic Conference, composed of Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma schools.

"Since we'll be operating as a junior college this year," Malone said, "our athletes will be able to transfer under junior college eligibility rules to senior colleges after this season if they wish or remain with us as we step up into the four-year class if they desire."

The Redskins expect this to be their last season under a junior college setup, however, and they'll go out with about the toughest schedule in the history of the school.

Malone, beginning his seventeenth year as Indian coach, says he's not in a position to predict anything right now about the prospects of a strong team this fall.

"Our prospects right now are uncertain," Malone declared. "The unsettled conditions resulting from the war in Korea, the alerting of National Guard and the possibility of prospective athletes going into military service leaves us in an air of uncertainty.

"But I think we'll be able to put a ball club on the field worthy of the reputation of the Big Six Conference. We expect several outstanding boys from last year's squad and some mighty good freshmen to join us this season."

Football practice for the Indians will open here next Friday with the initial drill scheduled for 9 o'clock that morning. Workouts will be held twice daily until September 11 when the school opens for registration.

Malone said his only request to the Redskin fans is "don't expect too much."

"It will take us at least two years to build up a team worthy of a four-year school of our size. We don't intend to rush into things but start slow and build on a sound foundation," he said.

Larry Doby of the Cleveland Indians struck out five times in one game in 1948.

Six Teams Will Give Grid Preview In Football Jamboree Here Friday

An action-crammed football season is hot on the blistered heels of Monroe's biggest baseball campaign since 1941, when the Cotton States League shut down for the war.

Thursday night the sport-light pivots to the stadium at Monroe's newly-converted Northeast Louisiana State College. At least a half-dozen nearby squads meet then to give the football public an eye-opening preview of what football will be like before the first frostbite.

A "Football Jamboree" is the best way Woodrow Turner, high school coach at Columbia and secretary of the Louisiana High School Coaches Association, could find to officially open the season. At the same time, players and fans get their first glimpse at a couple of 1950 rule changes.

Of several minor changes in play since last winter, one will stand out above all others.

"Neither a fumble nor a backward pass becomes dead when recovered by the defense after it has touched the ground. Such loose ball is alive and may be recovered and advanced by any player."

About twenty minutes play is the limit for the coming jamboree matches. After all, August football is a far cry from gridirons of later season. Fans, too, can appreciate the difference between warm night air and what will later turn into wind-whipped bleachers and muddy fields.

And coaches are not overly-anxious to see their promising starters injured in pre - conference play. The jamboree is to initiate players, not ruin them for the rest of the year.

Six teams rallied to the persistent demands of Coach Turner and agreed to hold the jamboree. They are Neville vs .Tallulah, Lake Providence vs. Olla and Winnsboro join the jamboree later. Play vs. Columbia. Other teams may starts at 8 o'clock.

Gate admission will be 75 cents and tickets are on sale at Carey Phillips Drugstore, 308 Trenton, West Monroe. Lockhart - Blair Sports Shop will supply Monroe fans with all the tickets they need.

Neville Stadium was designated by Coach Turner as the meeting place for all six teams, where they will use the Neville dressing rooms to prepare for the games.

Battlefield Claims 46th Hopeful Purse

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Battlefield owned by George D. Widener, president of Belmont Park and chairman of th Jockey Club, further solidified his claim to the two-year olds, championship today when he convincingly won the 46th Hopeful, richest prize of the upstate meeting.

A crowd of 23,132 packed the old course as the highly successful 24-day session came to a close and saw the son of War Relic charge home a length and a half before Cain Hoy stable's Battle Morn. Greentree stable's Big Stretch, a length farther away, was third, while Woodvale farm's Away Away finished fourth in the field of ten juveniles.

Battlefield, coupled with Mrs. George D. Widener's Knowitall and ridden by Eric Guerin, paid $4.60, $2.90 and $2.50. A bargain yearling purchase at the sales here in 1949 for only $4,500, the fleet colt earned $47,550, and increased his total to $113,712. He now has won eight out of 11 starts, including six stake, notably the Saratoga Special, Youthful and Tremont.

The race was obscured somewhat by the darkness, but strong binoculars revealed that Knowitall and Win Or Lose disputed the early lead. Saving ground on the rail, Battlefield took over matters on the turn and then clearly proved his superiority over the others.

HILL PRINCE COPS AMERICAN DERBY

All Blue Comes Home Second With Your Host In Show Position

By Charles Dunkley

Chicago, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Hill Prince expertly ridden by jockey Eddie Arcaro, today galloped to a length and a quarter victory in the $78,375 American Derby before 20,740 at Washington Park.

The winner, a 3-2 favorite, ran the mile and a quarter in 2:01 1-5.

Calumet farm's All Blue finished second, with Your Host third and Theory, another Calumet speedster fourth in a field of nine.

Hill Prince, second in the Kentucky Derby and winner of the Preakness, was last as the band of 3-year-olds turned into the back stretch. Then, under Arcaro's masterful handling, Hill Prince began to move up on his rivals and overhauled the pace setting All Blue after passing the eighth pole.

The Virginia bred winner, owned by C. T. Chenery of New York city, returned $5.00, $3.40 and $2.20. All Blue paid $3.20 to place and $2.40 to show. The show price on Your Host was $2.40.

By his victory, Hill Prince flung a firm challenge to King Ranch's Middleground for the 3-year-old championship of the year.

The triumph wah worth $60,050 to owner Chenery.

All Blue, with jocky Steve Brooks flailing him all the way down the long run for the wire, seemed to slide back as Hill Prince made his winning move. Yet the Calumet colorbearer was the best of the others in the field of nine, finishing four and one-half lengths ahead of William Goetz's Your Host, the California champion which had been considered Hill Prince's principal rival.

OLD HOME WEEK FOR PRO TALENT

Many Southern Stars To Shine In Shreveport Colts-Yanks Meeting

Shreveport, La. —(Special)— It will be "old home week" for former grid greats of southern and southwestern colleges when the professional football New York Yanks and Baltimore Colts tie into each other at State Fair Stadium here on Labor Day evening to bring Shreveport and the Ark-La-Tex area its first taste of the "play-for-pay" game.

The night grid game in Shreveport's new 32,000-seat stadium will top off a Labor Day sports program which also will feature a regatta at Cross Lake and a baseball game. Shreveport's Sports match swats with the Oklahoma City Indians in the Texas League game which follows the regatta.

The rosters of the Yanks and Colts carry an array of talent that in recent years cavorted on Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana college fields to bring fame and honor to themselves and to the colors they carried.

Coach Clem Crowe's Baltimore squad carries the following: Y. A. Tittle, L. S. U., 1948 rookie-of-the-year in professional football; Adrian Burk, Baylor's All-Southwest Confernce quarterback and most valuable player in the conference in 1949; Leon (Muscles) Campbell Arkansas fullback and the leading ground gainer in the Southwest Conference in 1948; and fullback, Ray Borneman, of Texas.

Linemen include Erroll Fry, guard and Ray Stone, end, both of Texas; Ern

PHILS HAVE 'OFF' DAY, WALLOPED BY BUCS

NATIONAL LOOP LEADERS GIVEN 14-4 TROUNCING

Dodgers Down Redlegs, 7 To 5, Braves Whip Cubs, 12 To 4

Pittsburgh, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Philadelphia's National League front runners had one of "those days" today and it was last place Pittsburgh that fashioned their first loss in six starts as the Bucs downed the Phillies 14-4.

Wally Westlake slammed his 16th home run for the winners in the third scoring Ralph Kiner and Jack Phillips ahead of him. Kiner, vainly seeking his 40th fourbagger, rapped a pair of singles in his first two appearances at the plate, then walked the next three times.

A crowd of 12,157 saw the Phillies humbled.

The Phils stepped out to a 1-0 lead in the third when Eddie Waitkus, who had tripled, tallied on an error by Jack Phillips. The Pirates took over in their half of the same frame on Westlake's homer.

Eddie Sawyer's pennant contenders collapsed in the next inning. Robin Roberts, seeking his 18th victory, gave up four hits and his mates contributed an error before a Pittsburgh batter was out. During the bombardment the Pirates scored five runs. Midway in the frame Roberts was relieved by Milo Candini.

Philadelphia came back for three runs in the fifth when Jim Walsh, Pittsburgh's starting hurler, wavered. Candini led off with a sin be, Waitkus flied to center and the pitcher scored when Richie Ashburn doubled to center. Dick Sisler and Del Ennis walked. Willie Jones' single scored Ashburn and Sisler tallied after Granny Hamner's fly to right. Murry Dickson finished the inning on the mound for the Pirates.

Pittsburgh exploded again in the eighth and combed two more Philadelphia twirlers for three hits and four walks, one of which forced over a run. Ken Heintzelman started the frame and was relieved by Blix Donnelly. An error by Jones contributed to the carnage as the Pirates sent 11 men to the pl te.

Dickson's sizzling double to deep right was the big power punch in the cellar-dwellers' final attack.

DODGERS DROP REDS

Cincinnati, Aug. 26. —(AP) —Roy Campanella cracked three mighty home runs today to lead the Brooklyn Dodgers to their tenth straight victory, a 7-5 decision over the Cincinnati Reds.

Each of Campanella's blasts landed over or against the laundry behind the left field fence and came with Gil Hodges on base to account for six runs. The blows increased Campanella's homer output to 27.

The victory moved the high-flying Dodgers to within four games of the league-leading Philadelphia Phils who bowed in Pittsburgh.

Campanella connected in the second, fourth and eighth innings off veteran Ken Raffensbergr. Campanella's eighth innning poke featured a three-run rally that broke a 4-4 tie.

GIANTS STOP CARDS

St. Louis, Aug. 26. —(AP)— Sal Maglie was liberal in granting hits today but stingy in allowing runs as he pitched the New York Giants to a 3-0 victory over the fading St. Louis Cardinals.

Maglie permitted the Cards to hit safely in each inning and granted 11 blows but bore down in the clutch to post his 12th victory and seventh straight. Three doubleplays helped Maglie out of trouble. The triumph advanced the Giants to within a game of the fourth place Red Birds.

City Schools Begin Big Program In Athletics, Physical Training

Monroe city schools will have a comprehensive athletic and physical education program with the opening of the fall term, J. M. Boyet, city superintendent, has announced.

William A. "Bill" Ruple, head coach and teacher at Neville High School, remains head coach, but takes on the added responsibility of coordinator of physical education activities for the Monroe city schools. Included in the assignment will be instructor of physical education classes for boys at Neville High.

Six fully-qualified coaches and physical - education teachers for boys and girls will work for fulfillment of the previously planned long range program in the city schools.

Detailed plans for a complete program are now being made. A complete sports program will be offered in the elementary schools. Football, basketball, and softball teams representing the elementary schools will participate in leagues. Football games will be played in Neville's stadium and inter-school basketball contests on the Neville court.

Jim Coats, assistant varsity coach at Neville will continue in that capacity, with Gus Petterson as coach of the freshman team.

Richard Salter will be in charge of Junior High Athletics.

Georgia Tucker school will have Van Leigh as director of physical education and athletics.

Harold G. Dickens will coach and direct athletics and physical education activities at Barkdull Faulk school.

Central, Lida Benton, and Sherrouse schools will have Clyde V. Perkins as their director. Perkins will work in these three schools, and will also be coach of athletics in one of them. The other two will be furnished competent athletic coaches by the Monroe Recreation department, under Jack Hesketh, following the same plan that was in operation last year.

All of the men and Miss Grace Brown, who continues as director of physical education and head coach for girls at Neville, are fully qualified to coach, and are certified in that field by the state department of education.

"We hope to give the boys and girls in the Monroe city school system a physical education and athletic program which is complete and continuous from the elementary grades through high school. A carefully planned program of this type is highly desirable from an educational standpoint, and should lead to better health among the children in our schools," Superintendent Boyet said in commenting on the program.

Three times during his career George Selkirk of the New York Yankees came to bat twice in a single inning and drew walks both times.

BROTHER OF LION GRID COACH DIES

Coach Hodgins Called To Shreveport; Holliman, Johnson Direct Work

Head Coach Jim Hodgins of the Ouachita Parish High School Lions was called from Monroe yesterday morning following the death of a brother in California, and his assistants, Herbert H. Holliman and Johnny Johnson will direct the Lions the early part of this week as they enter their third week of training for the coming football campaign.

Coach Hodgins left early yesterday morning to be with his mother in Shreveport following news of the death of a half brother, G. C. Briggs was in California with his Armour Packing Company, whose home was in Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Briggs was in California with his wife when stricken suddenly with a heart attack Friday night.

Mrs. Hodgins, who remained in Monroe yesterday but plans to leave for Shreveport today, said funeral arrangements have not been made, pending the arrival of the body in Shreveport where funeral services are expected to be held, probably Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the Lions are already deep in rough work as they battle for places on the 1950 eleven. Replacing nine regulars lost from the 1949 club is the big problem facing the O. P. H. S. forces.

The Lion squad is heavier this year with at least 15 candidates for the club tipping the scales around 200 pounds, but the usefulness of these boys will depend on their hustle and speed to meet the requirements of an exacting coaching staff.

START TICKET SALE

The advanced sale of season and box tickets for Ouachita's home football games will open Tuesday, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein, chairman of the school ticket committee. Season tickets may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Manhein or Lockhart - Blair Sports Shop.

Season tickets will not include the Neville game here Oct. 6.

Tickets for the season's opening home game only will go on sale Tuesday, September 5. Ticket prices per game will be $1.60 per box seat, $1 reserved grandstand, 75 cents general admission, and 50 cents for students.

BENGALS HALT MARCH OF RED HOSE, 8 TO 6

FOUR UNEARNED RUNS IN 9TH GIVE GAME TO TIGERS

Yanks Keep Step With 3-2 Win Over Browns; Tribe Nips A'S

Boston, Aug. 26. —(AP)— Quick to take advantage of an unfortunate error by Third Baseman Johnny Pesky, Detroit's front running Tigers scored four unearned runs in the ninth inning today for an 8-6 victory over Boston's Red Sox who fought vainly for their 12th consecutive triumph.

The Sox battled back with two of their own in the ninth but that rally died when, with the bases filled, Vern Stephens lifted a game ending high fly to Hoot Evers in short left cented as the great majority of 29,992 paid fans groaned.

Fred Hutchinson, who replaced starter Hal White with nobody out in the first inning lasted until the start of the Boston ninth for his 14th victory.

Hutch needed help from rookie Marlin Stuart and from Hal Newhouser, Tiger ace lefthander.

Th. Sox had scored twice in the eighth to knot the score at 4-4.

Vic Wertz began Detroit's ninth by poling a two base hit off the wall in left too high for the leaping Billy Goodman. Hoot Evers tried to sacrifice but Walt Dropo just reached his pop bunt for a putout as Wertz was forced to hold second.

Johnny Groth worked a base on balls from Walt Masterson, third Boston pitcher, who was charged with the defeat.

Don Kolloway crashed a grounder toward third, a potential double play ball, which bounced through Pesky for an error as Connie Berry, running for Wertz, scored and Groth moved to second.

Pat Mullin walked to load the bases and the tiring Hutchinson pushed a neat, run scoring sacrifice bunt down the first base line.

Johnny Lipon sent home the third and fourth Detroit runs by crashing a two bagger off the left field wall before Gerry Priddy was called out on strikes.

Bob Doerr began the home rally with a long high smash off the center field bleacher rampart for two bases and Hutch was lifted for Stuart. Al Zarilla welcomed the rookie by lining a single to right as Doerr played it safe and stopped at third.

Matt Batts, hitless all day, grounded to short for a double play on which Doerr scored.

Pinch hitter Buddy Rosar kept Boston hopes alive with a long single off the left center field wall and went to second as Dom DiMaggio whistled a safety through the box into center.

Pesky's sharp drive bounced off Stuart's leg for a single, loading the bases and Newhouser replaced Stuart.

The lefthander walked Goodman to force in a run and then Stephens ended things with his high fly out.

YANKS EDGE BROWNS

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The New York Yankees were handed a 3-2 victory with two out in the ninth inning today when Don Lenhardt, first baseman of the St. Louis Browns, pulled a boner.

With two out and Yogi Berra on second base via double, Hank Bauer beat out a hit to deep short. George Stirnweiss fielded the ball and threw to Lenhardt. Berra sped past third base and scored when Lenhardt froze with the ball instead of throwing to the plate for what should have been an easy out. Ned Garver was the victim of Lenhardt's trance.

The victory allowed the Yanks to remain in second place, a game and a half back of Detroit and two percentage points in front of Cleveland.

Tom Ferrick, who relieved Ed Lopat in the ninth was the winner. Lopat, after spinning shut out ball for eight innings, yielded two runs in the ninth on a pair of singles, a balk and two-run single by Less Moss.

The Yanks scored twice in the first against Stubby Overmire on a three-base error by Stirnweiss, single by Berra and triple by Joe DiMaggio.

20 FOR LEMON

Philadelphia, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Bob Lemon, the fifth Cleveland pitcher to face the Philadelphia Athletics today, stopped a rally in the eighth inning to win 5 to 4, for the 20th victory of the season, the first major league hurler to reach that mark this year.

Lemon came in after catcher Joe Astroth had greeted Sam Zoldak with a double. Astroth was out trying to stretch it, but pinchhitter Mike Guerra tripled. Lemon held the tying run on third base. In the ninth after Ferris Fain led off with a single, Lemon struck out Sam Chapman, Elmer Valo and Billy Hitchcock.

The Indians, just a shade behind the second place New York Yankees, jumped on starter Joe Coleman for two runs in the first and picked up three more in the third when Bob Kennedy hit his ninth homer of the year with Luke Easter and Ike Boone aboard.

Mrs. Sloane's Going Away Takes Pageant Handicap

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Going Away, a homebred from Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade stable, found the $15,000 added Pageant Handicap easy pickings at Atlantic City track today when he charged through the stretch to win by seven lengths.

Palatine stable's Chicle 2nd ran second. Highweight in the 12-horse field under 124 pounds, Chicle 2nd saved the place award by a length and a half over Overexposed.

The mutuel payoffs were Going Away, $15.60, $6.40, $4.00; Chicle 2nd, $3.60, $2.80, and Overexposed, $4.

JENA EXPANDING ATHLETIC PLANT

Additional Seats, Better Lighting, Electric Score, board For Giants

Jena, La., Aug. 26.—(Special)—Season football reserved seat tickets for Jena's 1950 home schedule now are on sale at Jimmy Wallace's Sporting Goods store, a portion of the new $4,000 electric scoreboard already has arrived and work has begun on erecting an additional 1,008-seat section of all-steel bleachers at the Jena football field.

These—in addition to watching the Black and Gold grid aspirants through their twice-a-day workouts—were the highlights of fan-talk among the followers of Jena High School's Giants this week.

A bloc of 300 seats between the 40-yard lines in the north (home side) stands has been marked off and numbered and will be sold on a season, reserved basis, school officials reported.

General admission tickets to the unreserved portion of the north stand and to the new south (visitor's side) stands will be sold on a game-to-game basis, with no reservation of seats.

"By purchasing a reserved seat in advance for the entire season, the patron relieves himself of the necessity of having to get to the field an hour ahead of time in order to be sure of a good seat," one official pointed out.

Meanwhile, F. H. Shiel, parish school superintendent, reported that the additional floodlights to increase the lighting facilities at the field have arrived and will be installed at an early date.

Shiel said the base, some cable and the control box for the new all-electric $4,000 scoreboard has arrived and "we seem assured that it will be fully erected and in operation by the time of our first home game on Sept. 8. Additional portions of the scoreboard now are in the process of fabrication and will be shipped to us as quickly as the workmen finish each section."

The title victory was the twenty-second triumph against one loss for Baber's this year. Aided all season by the effective pitching of Kalil and Catcher Fred Allen, Baber's had a fairly easy season. Kalil's three-hit pitching won the final game with backing from regular hitters like Genusa, who hit four for four.

of having the heaviest taxes in the south.

Throughout the nation as a whole state taxes take $60.72 a year out of each citizen's pickets, about 37 percent less than in Louisiana. This represents a burden of 4.6 cents out of each dollar of national income, about half the Louisiana burden.

Louisiana collected $98,000,000 more in taxes in the last fiscal year than it did in the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1948, before Governor Eal K. Long launched his program.

PLANS FOR THIRD WAR

London.—(AP)—Edwin Bell, 74, has joined Britain's civil defense corps and begun a refresher course showing air raid wardens how to deal with atom bombs. He's getting ready for his third war. He was senior air raid warden at surburban Wimbledon during the Nazi blitz and headed a group of volunteer wardens in London during the Zeppelin raids in World War I.

Most pumps now used in Holland to drain swampland are steam or diesel driven.

BRITISH EXPORTS

whether he should fulfill contracts for making machine tools for Soviet Russia, particularly of the class required for the manufacture and repair of tanks, when so many of our own royal ordinance factories are in sore need of renovation for this very purpose."

The Craven firm's chief, Churchill said, "told me his highly skilled craftsmen were seriously disturbed at doing work for Soviet Russian satellite Poland, which they feared would weaken our country and strengthen its most likely assailant.

"They also did not like the presence of Russian government inspectors under present conditions inside their workshops where a lot of confidential production is also being done for his majesty's government."

"Surely," he argued, "orders should be given now to stop the export by any firms of machine tools, diesel engines, and the like, to Soviet Russia! I trust that Mr. Attlee will be able to tell us when he speaks next week that this, at any rate, has been done."

Faced with Churchill's statements, a ministry of supply spokesman said "it is quite true that several machine tool manufacturers, including Craven brothers, are fulfilling contracts for Russia." The ministry's task is the obtaining of British weapons and looking after atomic research.

"A proportion of these orders were covered under the Russian-British trade agreement of 1948, and in return we get grain and other useful commodities," the spokesman said. He did not say how the other orders — beyond the "proportion' under the trade agreement — were placed.

"It is also true that Russian inspectors are permitted to go into these factories," he said. "If Russia is buying, she has the right to see how they are made."

He said that "it is a responsibility of the firm, of course, to insure that the inspectors do not see things which should not be seen."

In the international field Churchill predicted that the Communists may soon launch attacks upon Tibet and Iran but added "the supreme peril is in Europe."

He said that the only way to deal with Communist Russia is by having "superior strength in one form or another, and then by acting with reason and fairness. This is the plan of the battle for peace and the only plan which has a chance of success."

obtained keys to these offices from the police department.

While cleaning the light and water office, Tolbert said the Negro also dusted the vault in which bus tickets were kept. The janitor told police he took a bundle of tickets at a time and stuffed them in his shirt.

His bus ticket loot totaled $3,700, Tolbert said. All but $400 in tickets was recovered by police.

Capt. Tolbert said that on Monday's during the noon hour after parking meter change had been emptied, the janitor while cleaning City Secretary and Treasurer P. A. Poag's office would take a mop and bucket in and presumably clean up.

He admitted putting the nickels in his bucket, placing the mop over them and later taking them home. Police said Oliver had taken between $1,300 and $1,350 in parking meter money since June. He told police he hid the money in the moproom until he was ready to go home.

The janitor had most of the money changed into $100 bills and had deposited a portion of it in a local bank, Capt. Tolbert said. In addition to the bus tickets, police recovered $1,347 in cash.

Capt. Tolbert said a bond would be fixed on the grand larceny charge Monday.

NAVY SECRETARY

which former Secretary of State Byrnes won when Wallace resigned as secretary of commerce, there had been a firmly established policy on clearance of speeches on foreign affairs. Any speech by government officials which goes beyond the established lines of foreign policy (as laid down by the president) should be cleared with the state department, Tubby explained.

Wallace was fired by Mr. Truman in 1946 after making a speech advocating a softer policy toward Russia. The president at that time laid down orders that no official should make speeches in conflict with established foreign policy and that:

"Any public statement on foreign policy shall be cleared with the department of state."

Whether the administration's prompt reaction against Matthews' opinion would cause him to resign was a question of immediate speculation in Washington.

State department officials said they were moved by two main concerns in promptly repudiating Matthews' statement:

1. They feared that Russian propagandists would seize on the statement as evidence to support their long-time charge that American "war mongers" are "preparing to unleash a new war.

2. They considered the idea of what is generally called a "preventive war" wrong. In their view no modern war between great powers can be won by either side without enormous and permanently damaging losses; further they believe that America's leadership of peaceful nations depends on its own thoroughgoing devotion to peace.

cers already on duty with the transportation corps.

3. The army has sent both telegrams and registered letters to the presidents of 195 major railroads, advising them of the impending seizure and directing them to post notices of it at major stations.

4. Bendetsen told reporters that he had been in touch with officials of the railroads and of the railway brotherhoods involved in the current dispute—the brotherhood of railway trainmen and the order of railway conductors. He said both assured him "of continued operation of the railroads without impairment of service."

Bendetsen told reporters that the army is neutral in the dispute between management and the brotherhoods over the union demands. The unions seek a 40 hour work week without reduced pay, instead of the present 48 hour week, for yard workers, and wage increases for other brotherhood members.

Negotiations between management and unions for a settlement were at a standstill today but are expected to be resumed later.

"We're hopeful, just as everybody else is hopeful," Bendetsen said, "that they can get together and work this out so the government can turn the roads back in a short time."

The army said that the seven railroad presidents called to active duty to be regional directors will be working for the army and will not continue to act as presidents of their own roads.

"They will not be men wearing two hats," an officer said.

which tried to seize the Taegu forward base had been "cut in half."

Taegu was safe for the present, the officers said.

Giving marked aid to the rebuff of the Reds north of Taegu was the air arm with low level attacks. Sunday, Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, far eastern air force commander, in a 60-day summary of air operations throughout the theater, said his planes made 20,500 sorties and had "severely crippled" the North Koreans.

Stratemeyer said FEAF planes definitely had destroyed 111 tanks and knocked out many others among a total of 600 tanks, armored cars and half tractors attacked. B-29 superforts in that period dropped 11,500 tons of bambs, mostly on industries, rail and road bridges and marshalling yards.

Associated Press correspondent Don Huth reported from U. S. eighth army headquarters in Korea that the defensive victories of Americans and South Koreans over the Reds in the Kumhwa corridor may have marked the final critical test for the allies.

It was the third major crisis weathered successfully by the defenders since they withdrew behind the Naktong river line Aug. 4, and it may prove to be the last, Huth said.

More defensive battls may come, and more short withdrawals may be necessary to stabilize the lines, Huth said, but the days of desperate shifting of allied troops to stop leaks appear to be over.

The enemy can be counted on to keep probing for weak spots, however.

In the latest such attempt, two Red divisions, with possibly a third, made some unspecified short gains Saturday in the Pohang-Kigye sector, where the South Korean capital and third divisions hold a line which runs east to the sea of Japan.

The Pohang-Kigye assault had been anticipated after South Korean troops had launched an offensive with initial gains and then had encountered firmly dug-in Red positions. The republican drive bogged down, then the Reds started their push.

While the Reds were moving forward, American aircraft began plastering them in the fashion that has proven so helpful to allied ground troops — direct close ground - air support.

General MacArthur's summary early Sunday gave no estimate of the number of Reds making a three-pronged drive over a 15-mile area against the South Korean forces in the East between Kigye and Pohang.

Forces of the fifth and 12th Communist divisions were staging the attack. The Red tenth division was reported in reserve.

The summary said Red artillery and mortar fire rocked back the South Korean second corps from 2,000 to 3,000 yards, but it did not pinpoint the location northeast of Taegu.

It also reported strong pressure by a spearhead of 20,000 men against the South Korean eighth division in the northern sector, but said latest reports indicated the defense line was holding.

Field dispatches, evidently later than the headquarters data, placed this fighting in the Chongno area, 24 miles north of Taegu, and said the South Koreans had regained the lost ground late Saturday.

AP Correspondent Tom Lambert reported from that front that the South Koreans secured high ground, reoccupied the village of Chongpyong, and went forward generally without much difficulty in straightening out what could be a vunerable allied salient. Northwest of Taegu, MacArthur's release said, patrols attempting to cross to the enemy west bank of the Naktong river in the U. S. first cavalry division sector met strong enemy resistance.

Still farther south, at an unspecified location, air observers reported the Reds had an underwater bridge in operation, with vehicles on both sides of the Naktong.

Down on the southwest front, where the Reds are nearest to Pusan, American Negro troops fighting shoulder to shoulder with South Korean infantrymen battled successfully to secure the last bloodstained ground on the ridge and below Battle mountain.

Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton reported the Americans were ordered to use flamethrowers and high explosive Saturday night to seal caves into which the Reds had fled for shelter from heavy American artillery and airpower.

Battle mountain, two miles west of Haman on the Masan front, has changed hands six times in a week of fierce fighting. The U. S. victory Saturday night was against slight opposition.

The Hawaiian fifth regimental combat team threw back the Red attack in battalion strength to keep control of Sobuk, another key mountain. It commands the western approaches to Masan, and Masan is the gateway to Pusan.

necessary for the voters to choose their delegates at this election, even though the proposal for the convention should not be favored

"A considerable number of my friends have urged me to offer myself as a delegate, and, having decided to do so, I invite the support of every citizen of Ouachita Parish, regardless of his views with respect to the convention itself.

"I realize that this particular position is one of responsibility rather than of profit, a privilege to be conferred rather than an office to be sought.

"I believe, however, that I am fully qualified by training, experience, and perspective to take part in the drafting of a new Constitution, and I assure you that if you should see fit to repose this trust in me and if the convention should be held, I shall approach the task with a sincerity of purpose, an independence of thought and action, and a determination to be of service to our state."

Leigh attended the Monroe City Schools, from which he graduated in 1920. He received his law degree from the Louisiana State University in 1924, and has practiced law in Monroe since that time except for the period from 1942-1945, when he served in the United States Navy, with the rank of Lieutenant Commander. Since 1929 he has been a member of the lawfirm of Theus, Grisham, Davis and Leigh.

He is a member of the Louisiana State and American Bar Associations and the American Law Institute. He has served on the council of the Louisiana State Law Institute since 1946. He has been a member of the Board of Supervisors of Louisiana State University since 1940 and is the immediate past-chairman of that board.

of the main American supply base of Pusan. A "limited offensive" by the 35th regiment of the U. S. 25th infantry division, the fifth regimental combat team from Hawaii, and elements of the first marine division drove to high ground four miles east of Chinju and then withdrew to original positions west of Masan.

The drive blunted the Red southern attack and eased the pressure on Pusan.

2—The Reds' crack fourth division established a major bridgehead across the Naktong southwest of Taegu near Changnyong. The battered American 24th division counterattacked, but the bridgehead grew. The 24th and the marines, led by Pershing tanks, mounted a joint offensive that chewed up the North Korean fourth division and sent remnants of it fleeing westward across the river.

3—Five North Korean divisions were concentrated for the Taegu drive north and east of Waegwan—which served as a lock holding the door of the allied defense lines together. The Reds tried to shatter the door northeast of Waegwan. Three enemy divisions—the 15th, 13th and third—were badly mauled in the seven-day battle and withdrew.

These defensive victories have been augmented by lesser but significant ones.

Philippine troops are scarce and police protection scanty.

One Huk raiding party hit Arayat, only 10 miles from the American air force base at Clark field, 50 miles northwest of Manila.

The strongest of the Communist guerilla forays was against Tarlac and nearby Camp Macabulos, a Philippines constabulary headquarters. There the Huks massacred 10 troopers in their beds and killed 20 in later fighting, including two women officers.

Looting as they went, the guerrillas stormed into jails and released fellow Huks. At one time they held control of the town of Santa Cruz, capital of Laguan Province, for four hours. Santa Cruz is 35 miles southeast of Manila.

Albert, a television school student and navy veteran, had been arrested on the basis of information obtained at the bar. He was held on homicide charges.

The woman's body was found by maintenance men yesterday as they were preparing the racetrack for Monday's opening.

Police said Albert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Albert, were on a vacation in the west. Albert had stayed home to attend classes.

Mrs. Maguire's truck driver husband, James, 35, told police he first missed his wife when he awoke to go to work yesterday morning. He said he had presumed she had stayed with a relative where their eighit-year-old daughter, Maureen, is visiting.

EIGHTEEN DEAD

us, and all of a sudden we get rammed."

The Luckenbach Steamship Co. had no comment up to mid-afternoon today.

Because it was only a trial run after the ship had been taken from mothballs, the list of those aboard was far from authoritative. The navy was pretty sure how many men and nurses it had on the ship.

It was known how many civilian technicians were aboard. But when it came to the personnel of the military sea transport service, things got confused. There could have been anywhere between 160 and 190.

The 522-foot Benevolence lay on her side today, with the big red crosses on her white hull showing through the waves washing over her. Survivors were scattered in naval and army hospitals in three cities on San Francisco Bay.

The Benevolence was returning from a trial run preparatory to sailing for Korea as a mercy ship.

"Thank God she wasn't returning from Korea," said Capt. T. R. Wirth, chief of staff of the 12th naval district. "Normally there might have been 1,500 patients aboard, maybe even as many as 3,000."

Most of those who were aboard had just gone along for the ride.

She was about four miles from San Francisco Bay and 1 1-2 miles off San Francisco's famed seal rocks when the outbound freighter Mary Luckenbach broke through the fog.

Captain Lyle J. Havens, a civilian harbor pilot who was piloting the Benevolence, had heard the whistle and ordered full stop and full right rudder. The hospital ship wheeled in the wated.

The freighter's prow ripped into her exposed starboard flank with a jarring crash, reared back, and struck again. The momentum of the Mary Luckenbach carried her forward, rolling back the side of the hospital ship. Survivors said it felt like an earthquake.

The hospital ship sank onto her port side in about 15 minutes. There was no order to abandon ship.

Those aboard poured over the side into the chilly Pacific ocean, clinging to life belts, life rafts, boards and each other.

It was then the remarkable rescue operation got underway. Thirty seven smaller craft from destroyers to little fishing craft from San Francisco's fisherman's wharf nosed through the fog into the mass of floating humans and debris.

Capt. Austin Tobin of an army tug found 60 men crowded on two twelve-foot square rafts.

"Not a man among them had enough strength left to pull himself aboard though our deck was level with their chins," Tobin said.

Eleven nurses were tied together and clinging to three boards. They sang "merrily we roll along" as they awaited rescuers.

"There were dozens of men beyond the reach of life rafts, clustered together and floating around for what seemed a century," said Medical Corpsman Henry N. Voodren. "The fellows with the life-jackets grabbed those without, and hung onto them, so that they couldn't drift away in the fog."

Quartermaster Donald Poalson said he was on "about six life rafts lashed together, with men lumped on top of them and all around, hanging onto ropes. It looked like a New York subway rush hour crowd."

Some were half stripped and blue from the cold, some were sobbing and hysterical. But the water was full of heroes. And few dead. Among the dead was Captain Havens, the civilian pilot.

The navy ordered an investigation to determine the cause of the crash and learn why neither ship knew of the other's approach. Both were equipped with radar.

An electrician's mate on the Benevolence said "we had five ships on that radar screen and not one was near us, and all of a sudden we get rammed."

There was no comment from officers of the Mary Luckenbach which came into port with her bow stove in and 50 survivors she had rescued.

Phantom Movement Leaves Rocking Chair

Muscatine, Ia., Aug. 26. —(AP)— Remember that Muscatine rocking chair which rocked by itself?

Well, it isn't rocking so much these days and apparently is now just a chair.

The rocker, which started on what seemed to be a self-propelled marathon last March and continued in motion for four months, lost its restlessness when Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Holladay moved to another address and took the chair with them.

The Holladays said there evidently are fewer vibrations in their new home, for the chair is now at ease most of the time. Once in a while it takes off on a temporary rocking spree.

RODEO PLANNING NEAR COMPLETION

Less Than Two Weeks Before Annual Event Starts At Gentry Arena

With less than two weeks remaining before the sixth annual rodeo at Gentry's arena in West Monroe, the Northeast Louisiana Rodeo Association is rapidly completing plans for the largest rodeo ever staged in the Twin Cities.

The 1950 rodeo will be held Sept. 6th through the 10th and feature the Hendricks twins, Byron and Lee, in a death defying four-foot jump, Roman style over an automobile, according to Haze Gentry, president of the rodeo association.

This unprecedented act on twin horses will be featured at each of the five performances, Gentry said. Last year the twins were featured in the Madison Square Garden rodeo and are booked again this season.

Gentry pointed out that the Hendricks act is only one of this season's new spectacular rodeo attractions.

In addition to the usual calf roping, bull dogging, bareback riding and etc., the association has arranged to have an entirely new show produced by new producers, the Butler Brothers of Elk City, Okla., owners of some of the west's finest stock, Gentry said.

An eight-up team of ponies will be another new feature of the sixth annual rodeo. Equally as facinating to watch wil be two of the nation's top clowns, John Lindsey and Hoydt Heflin, according to Gentry.

The Boom Town Mounted Quadrille, an act described as a favorite among many rodeo fans, promises to be both exciting and colorful, Gentry said.

The Ouachita parish High school band will also be on hand to provide music at the rodeo arena before each evening performance.

Tony Martin and his rodeo band from Houston, Tex., will furnish western music throughout the entire rodeo. The announcer this year will be Pete Adams of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Several local cowboys will be competing for honors during the five day rodeo. Hundreds of horses are being rounded up for the rodeo parade which will officially open the sixth annual rodeo here and travel through the Twin Cities the afternoon of September 6th.

Sugar Pine trees were first discovered by David Douglas, a Scotch botanical explorer, on October 26, 1926, in California.

PLAYHOUSE WILL BE REDECORATED

Programs For Coming Season Head Agenda At First Meetings

Plans for repair and redecoration work for the playhouse at Selman Field and for programs for the coming season headed the agenda at the first official meetings of the board of directors of the Little Theatre of Monroe, Inc., August 18 and 24 at the Lotus Club.

New appointments made for the coming season included the selection of Miss Emma Louise Biedenharn as general chairman of the membership drive, which begins Sept. 11. Mrs. James A. Noe was selected to head the committee on patron memberships.

Thomas M. Hayes, Jr., new member of the board, was chosen to head the ticket printing committee.

Other chairmen chosen at the first meeting included Mrs. C. H. McHenry, chairman, and Mrs. Ross Lawrence, co-chairman, to handle advertising in the programs; I. T. Landhy and Edward M. Ellison to head the house committee; Mrs. Robert Layton and Mrs. Carroll Summer, hostess committee; and Miss Lallage Feazel, chairman of the play-reading committee.

A resolution specifying that the opening production of the season would be a comedy was unanimously approved.

Miss Roberta Mayes Becomes Bride of Bruce S. Landis, III

First Methodist Church In Delhi Is Scene Of Impressive Ceremony

One of the loveliest weddings of the summer season was solemnized Tuesday evening, Aug. 8 in the First Methodist Church of Delhi, when Miss Roberta Mayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Mayes, became the bride of Bruce S. Landis III, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Landis, Jr. of Winnsboro. The Rev. Wineinger, pastor of the Methodist church of Delhi officiated with the Rev. C. B. Hall, pastor of Winnsboro church assisting.

A program of prenuptial music was rendered by Miss Jean Sproles of Delhi, becomingly gowned in white net over satin. She accompanied Mrs. Edgar Lowry of Winnsboro who sang "I Love You Truly" and "Sweetest Story Ever Told". Fred Ellerbe sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony. Considerable sentiment was attached to the selection of the first three numbers, as they were sung at the wedding of the groom's parents.

The vows were said before an altar banked with tall bronze candelabra bearing lighted white tapers as a background which cast a luminous glow over graceful white floor baskets of white asters and Easter lilies. The lovely white satin dresses of the attendants and their escorts white attire were reflected in the dim candleglow creating a lasting picture of beauty and sincerety. To the strains of Lohengrin's traditional wedding march, the groomsmen entered followed by the bride s attendants. They were J. Osward Henry, Morgan Williams and DeMarcus Butler of Winnsboro. Robert Mayes, twin brother of the bride, of Delhi, and James Epinette of Monroe. Tom Landis was his brother's junior groomsman. Robert McCaleb was his best man.

The bridal attendants were Mrs. James Epinette, Miss Sue Gaar, both of Monroe; Miss Madge McEacharon, Miss Zona Mae Norris, Miss Jeanie Knight of Delhi, with petite little Miss Margie McElwee of Delhi as junior bridesmaid. They wore identical white satin floor length dresses with side bustle forming a bouffant effect and worn over hoops. They carried cascade bouquets of coral asters tied with deep coral satin ribbons.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Cleta Harville, Mathis, Texas, was gowned in a similar white satin frock and carried a bouquet of pink asters tied with pink satin streamers. They wore halo caps of white nylon net and satin.

Misses Jane and Annette Teer as flower girls were miniature replicas of the maids in their white satin bouffant frocks and carrying baskets of rose petals for the bride's pathway. The bride, who entered with her father was lovely in her bridal gown of white satin with full overdress of white chantilly lace which fell gradefully in a long train. The bodice was a tight fitted basque, with yoke of tiny seed pearls and the sleeves ended in tapers over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of white nylon tulle fell gracefully from a bandeau of white orange blossoms and she carried an exquisite bouquet of white tuberoses and tulle centered by a giant white primavera orchid.

Immediately after the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Mayes, lovely in a rose chiffon with beaded bodice, received the guests, assisted by Mrs. B. S. Landis, Jr., who wore a smartly fashioned floor length original of chartreuse chiffon heavily encrusted with irridescent crystals. Both wore shoulder corsages of magenta orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Landis, Sr., grandparents of the groom were also in the reception line. Mrs. Landis in a dusty rose chiffon with an orchid shoulder corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Newsom of Dallas, uncle and aunt of the bride were introduced at this time.

Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. J. L. Kincaid, Miss Elsie Pipes and Miss Betty Henry of Monroe, dressed in pastel formals who passed punch, petite fours and other dainties among the guests.

The bride's table in the dining room was covered with an imported Venice lace cloth and centered by a huge three-tiered wedding cake.

A white satin bell was suspended above the cake, which was balanced by silver candelabra with lighted tapers at either end. Miss Mary Louise Guerriere of Monroe was in charge of the bride's book. Several hundred guests were privileged to congratulate the young couple and view the array of gifts.

After the reception, the bride changed her wedding gown for a traveling ensemble of pale blue linen with navy accessories. The orchid from her wedding bouquet accented this lovely ensemble. After a wedding trip through the Great Smoky Mountains to New York and other eastern cities, the young couple will be at home in Winnsboro, where Mr. Landis is associated with his father in business.

Mrs. Landis is a graduate of Delhi High School and attended Northeast Junior college and Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority.

Mr. Landis is a graduate of Winnsboro High School, attended L. S. U., is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and served in the navy during World War II.

Rehearsal Party

Hosts and hostesses for this event were Dr. and Mrs. Sheldon Teer, Dr. and Mrs. Lorenz Teer, Dr. and Mrs. Newell McElwee and Miss Jean Sproles. A variety of salads with barbecue and relishes were served to the members of the wedding party. The Rev. and Mrs. Wineinger, the Rev. and Mrs. C. B. Hall, Miss Pearl LeFevre and the parents of the bride and groom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a wedding gown of white slipper satin, fashioned with a sweet-heart neckline outlined in seed pearls and with long fitted sleeves ending in lily points at the wrist. The full skirt fell in graceful folds from a fitted bodice and ended in a sweeping train. The long flowing veil of illusion was fastened to a bandeau of Chantilly lace embroidered with seed pearls. The bride's bouquet was of lilies of the valley centered with a single white orchid tied with white satin streamers.

Miss Mary Asseff of Mansfield wearing a charming gown of sky-blue fashioned with fitted bodice of satin with a long full skirt of blue net over satin, was the maid of honor. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of pastel daisies tied with long satin streamers.

Their gowns were fashioned along the same lines as the maid of honor. Miss Clack's was pink orchid: Mrs. Lancaster's peacock blue and Mrs. Short's a bronze gold. Each carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pastel daisies tied with wide satin streamers.

The little flower girls, Carol Linton of Emerson, Ark. was wearing aqua and Janet Walker of Gibsland, was wearing pink. Master Stephen Tomlin, of DeMoines, Iowa, nephew of the bride, carried the rings on a diminutive white satin pillow.

David F. Miller, Jr. brother of the groom, served as best man. The ushers were Fred Miller and Dalton Miller, brothers of the groom, and Robert James Lancaster.

The mother of the bride was becomingly attired in an early fall model of dark green gabardine and wore a corsage of yellow daisies.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the beautiful country home of the bride's parents. The reception rooms were profusely decorated with white carnations, baskets of white gladioli and late summer flowers.

The bride's table was overlaid with a hand embroidered cut-work linen cloth. The table was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and net with crystal candelabra holding white tapers. Placed on a mirror with a miniature bride and groom standing under an arch of valley lilies, on the top tier, was the beautiful wedding confection.

For their wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains the bride wore an early fall two-piece model of dark green velveteen and chartreuse crepe. Her accessories were brown.

TARZAN LIKES REAL AFRICA

Nairobi, Kenya Colony.—(AP)—Lex Barker, the latest in the line of film Tarzans, founded by Elmo Lincoln, finds the great forests of the foothills of snow-capped Mount Kenya a much more romantic place to work than the American settings previously used by the jungle man. "I have never enjoyed anything more than these contacts with the real thing," Barker said. Picture making here has its drawbacks, however. One day an elephant charged the camp, dislocating the shooting schedule. It did no serious damage, however.

Alumnae of Kappa Delta, the oldest sorority at L. S. U. and Tech, entertained at their first annual Pan-Hellenic party Tuesday morning in the picturesque home of Mrs. Ivy Jordan. The "get-acquainted" event, which honored alumnae of seventeen Pan-Hellenic sororities and girls going away to college, will become another traditional function for the Monroe K. PAKISTANI PILGRIMS BANNED

Karachi—(AP)—A ban on Pakistani pilgrims to Mecca has been imposed at the request of Egypt, Syed Abdul Hamid El Khatib, Saudi Arabian minister, told a press conference here. He said the ban would be lifted as soon as the world health organization informed his government that Pakistan would abide by the International Health Convention of 1926. Egypt, he said, feared its nationals might be contaminated by Pakistanis infected with cholera.

MARRIED RECENTLY

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller Smith shown at the reception following their recent marriage in Hodge. Mrs. Smith is the former Miss Elsie Mae Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Maxwell. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Smith, both of Hodge.

ELSIE MAE MAXWELL BRIDE OF DONALD MILLER SMITH

A wedding characterized by charming simplicity took place at the home of Rev. J. E. Calloway, pastor of the Hodge Baptist Church of Hodge, La., Saturday, August 12th, at seven-thirty o'clock when Miss Elsie Mae Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Maxwell of Hodge became the bride of Mr. Donald Miller Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Smith of Hodge in a lovely and impressive double ring ceremony with the Reverend Calloway officiating at the wedding vows.

Crepe myrtle, zinnias and ferns were effectively and artistically used throughout the reception room of the Calloway home.

Preceeding the ceremony Miss Helen Calloway rendered a program of pre-nuptial music and sang "I Love Thee." Soft music was rendered as the vows were exchanged.

The bride was becomingly attired for her wedding in a lovely white eyelet ensemble over navy. Her accessories were navy and she chose pink carnations for her corsage. Miss Jackie Jordan, maid of honor, was the bride's only attendant. Mr. Billy Joe Hughes, served the groom as best man.

Those attending the wedding were Miss Janice Smith, Hodge, La.; Miss Jackie Jordan, Mr. Billie Joe Hughes, Miss Marlene Brown, Miss Helen Calloway, all of Hodge; Mrs. J. B. Bourgeois, Livermore, Calif.; Mr. Shelton Stuckey, and Mrs. Alton Stuckey of Eros; Mrs. Frank Anzalone, Jr. of Monroe.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Allen Brown. The reception rooms of the Brown home were artistically decorated with profusion of roses and marigolds interspersed with promosus fern placed at vantage points throughout the rooms. The bride's table was overlaid with a lovely imported lace cloth and held the three tiered wedding cake decorated with lilies of the valley and topped with a miniature bride and groom and flanked by burning white tapers in crystal holders.

A centerpiece of pink rosebuds gracefully centered the table.

Miss Geraldine Brown presided at the crystal punch bowl while Miss Lillie Maxwell served the cake.

The couple left immediately following the reception for a short trip to New Orleans. They will be at home in Hodge where Mr. Smith is employed.

Food Handlers' School Slated

Jonesville, La., Aug. 26.—(Special)—A "food handlers school" will be held in Catahoula next week under the direction of the parish health unit.

All persons who work in cafes, restaurants and other food handling establishments are requested to attend. The school will also be open to other persons interested.

Classes will be held at Block High school in Jonesville, with the first class set for Monday at 2 p. m. At the Monday session, a vote will be taken on the best time suitable to hold the remainder of the classes, which will run through Thursday.

New High School Site Is Purchased

Jonesville, La., Aug. 26.—(Special)—The Catahoula parish school board this week closed a deal for the purchase of a site for a new high school building.

The site, consisting of more than five acres, is near the Jonesville municipal park. A new school building, badly needed at the present time, can probably be erected in 1954, when indebtedness on the present building is paid off.

The board will receive informal bids on September 5 for an agriculture center at Block. After completion, the center will be used for regular classrooms for the remainder of the school year.

SEVERAL NEW BIOGRAPHIES ADDED AT OUACHITA PARISH LIBRARY

Several new biographies have recently been added to the book collection. "The Marx Brothers" by Carl Crichton is a delightful account of the rise to fame of this family of comedians. "Rip Van Winkle" the autobiography of Joseph Jefferson is one of the most delightful autobiographies ever written. A new edition with a foreword by Eleanor Farjeon has just been published. If you want a charming book for leisurely reading, don't miss this one. Ernie Pyle was one of the most popular writers of the last war. Now Lee Miller has written the story of his life in "The Story of Ernie Pyle." This is a book that you will not want to miss. "Harvey Cushing" by Elizabeth H. Thomson is a beautfully written account of the life of the famous surgeon.

All the people in Ouachita Parish who run school cafeterias will be interested to know that the Library has a new edition of "Food for Fifty" by Sina Fowler. This is one of the few books which give recipes for cooking for large crowds.

Your public Library is eager to serve you and has information on almost every type of subpject in which you may be interested.

"Reprisal" by Arthur Gordon is the Literary Guild selection for September. This book has been hailed by critics as a mature and thoughtful novel. It will probably encounter much unfavorable opposition, because it portrays the South and its social problems in a most unflattering light. At any rate it is a book that will be talked about.

"Stolen Goods" by Clarence Budington Kelland is very much like many of his previous stories. It is certainly not an important book, but it is an entertaining one.

Two excellent books of sermons recently added to the Library are "What are you living for?" by John Bonnell and "When the lamp flickers" by Leslie D. Weatherhead.

If you are interested in building a home or redecorating the one you have, you will surely want to see "A Home of Your Own, How to Buy or Build It" by Julian Roth, "The Standard Book of American antique furniture by Edgar Miller Jr. "Decorating For and With Antiques" by Ethel Hall Bjerkoe "Bedroom Furniture Period and Modern" by V. E. Broadbent, and "How To Use Color and Decorating Designs in the Home" by Howard Ketcham.

Gardeners will be interested in "The Joyful Gardener" by Agnes Rothery and "The Complete Garden Handbook" by Maron J. Simon

A most delightful and unusual new book recently received at the Ouachita Parish Public Library is "The Little World of Don Camillo" by Giovanni Guareschi. This book is in its 7th edition in Italy and promises to be quite popular here. It is a very diverting story about a village priest, Don Camillo and his satnic enemy, the Communist Mayor, Peppone. This book is extremely amusing but with a good sound underlying philosophy.

"The Arch of Stars" by Clifford Lindsey Alderman is a first novel by this author, but is extremely well-written. This is a tempestuous love story of the Revolutionary period. The story opens in Connecticut, but soon shifts to the New Hampshire land grants and to New York. Readers of historical novels will not want to miss this one.

Helen Topping Miller has a large following who will welcome her latest offering "The Horns of Capricorn." This story is laid in North Carolina at the turn of the century. The plot is based on a feud between the Keelings an the Cavitts which had smoldered for many years, until a happy love affair ended all ill will.

Mrs. James Jeter, Jr., of Monroe, a bride of recent date, was honored with a tea-shower here given by members of the bridegroom's family at the home of Mr. Jeter's grandmother, Mrs. J. T. Howell.

Revival services are being held Aug. 14 through Aug. 20 at the Collinston First Baptist Church. Rev. Simpson Powell of Hamburg, Ark., speaks from the pulpit twice daily at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The singing is being directed by the local pastor. Rev. Norman Tilbury.

Chaney-Bolton

In a sacred and impressive service, attended only by members of the immediate families Miss Bettie Bolton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bolton became the bride of Ernest J. Chaney, Jr., Tuesday evening at six, at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Lake Providence with Msgr. F. J. Plutz officiating.

The chancel and altar of the sacred edifice were decorated in midsummer flowers.

Mrs. Burta Pinkston was at the organ for the nuptial music.

The bride was gowned in a sleeveless colonial blue model, with deep, rounded neckline. The full skirt was fronted with a white embroidered inset. She wore a white calot with swirling veil. The groom wore the uniform of the U. S. navy.

The attendants were John Chaney, brother of the groom, Miss Cora Lee Grigsby, and Mrs. J. D. Brown of Natchez, Miss.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Chaney were hosts at a buffet supper at the Chaney home on South Davis St., entertaining the bridal party and members of the families.

C. S. S. C. Chaney returned Friday to Alameda, Calif., naval base and Mrs. Chaney will reside in Lake Providence with relatives.

Waterproof Holds Community Picnic

Ferriday, La., Aug. 26.—(Special)—The Waterproof community picnic was held at Mrs. J. D. Neal's Trailer Camp at Cool Coosa near the 40-acre store on Lake St. John from 4 to 9 p. m. Friday. The picnic is sponsored by the men of the churches and other clubs.

One of the features of the annual affair was the presentation of pupils of the Union Daily Vacation Bible School with their work and handicraft at 7 p.m. Refreshments and soft drinks were served and the profits went toward defraying the expenses of the most successful Bible School held in Waterproof recently.

WELL BROUGHT IN

Ferriday, La., Aug. 26. —(Special)—The Carter Oil Company's No. 1 Graham wildcat well in section 48-5N-9E of Concordia parish was perforated between 5980-36 and on a drill stem test made gas in 23 minutes and flowed oil in 48 minutes at 8 to 12 barrels of 44 degrees gravity oil an hour with the tool open three hours. It is producing from the Wilcox Sand. The nearest Wilcox production is 8 miles southeast in the Glen Aubin Field of Mississippi. The well lies 12 miles southwest of Natchez, Miss., and 13 miles south of Ferriday.

Hal Boyle:

NOTEBOOK

Korea—(AP)—It takes more than a war in Korea to make the American soldier give up the habits of home.

In a strange land of strange customs he tries in small ways to live the way he always has. Sometimes this effort is ludicrous. Sometimes it is sad. But always it is stubborn, for even on a battlefront the Yank insists on making his life as normal as he can.

So far I haven't heard any soldier say he was over here fighting for his children's right to eat good old grandmom's good old blueberry pie—or to protect his favorite brand of toothpaste from Communist infiltration. But the army hasn't made the mistake it did in the early part of the second world war—that of foisting off on the combat troops unknown brands of cigarets and chewing gum.

The infantry then raised a fair and proper howl over that. The doughboys thought it only reasonable that if they had to suffer in foreign territory they should enjoy familiar cigarets—and let the civilians who were enjoying the familiar landmarks of home suffer the unfamiliar cigarets.

And the glory of the folks at home was that most agreed with them. But war is war and the quartermaster corps isn't quite as efficient or as well stocked as the corner drugstore.

As late as the day Hitler did himself in a GI in Germany could rip open a K combat ration and still pull out a packet of four cigarets that were not merely as unknown to him as the meaning of a German verb. They sometimes were as mouldy as a grocery bill in original sanskrit.

But that hasn't happened in Korea to my knowledge. The soldiers here might not be issued every day a pack of their favorite smokes. But it is sure to be one of the better known brands.

It is the same with chewing gum, shaving cream, candy and toilet articles. Wherever the army or air force post exchanges have these articles in stock, they are usually familiar, popular, advertised brands. This is even true of snuff and razor blades. You would be surprised how many middle-aged sergeants in this still largely professional army use snuff.

And most soldiers remember the mysterious razor blades of the last war that would nick a pimple but wouldn't cut a beard except under pressure that also removed the top layer of a man's face. The razor blades sold or given to the troops now have to cut. They are guaranteed to take off whiskers—and they have been guaranteed for years.

They aren't made by fly by-night concerns that grabbed a quick army contract and reaped a quick profit knowing they wouldn't be in business in postwar years.

This preference of the army to buy name products is a real morale factor. It may be possible only because this is yet a small war. It does penalize the new and often enterprising manufacturer who may have an even better product to offer. But it makes the soldier feel good to know that he can get here the things he used at home. It makes him feel that he is still thought to be as important as the civilian whose standards he is protecting.

There is one type of soldier, however, who is being discriminated against. That is the cigar smoker. The army isn't taking care of him. I know because I am a cigar man myself. A real cigar man would almost rather attack a machinegun nest than smoke a cigaret in compromise.

We treasure cigars and pass them around almost as tenderly as if they were letters from home.

Mrs. Laura Norris, 1325 A South 6th St., St. Louis, Mo., says doing the family washing and housework is no longer a chore. She says she can do her work in a breeze now. She thanks wonderful HADACOL for her feeling of well being. She had deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin, and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Norris' exact statement: "It was such a long time since I was feeling 'OK.' I had been very nervous and my nerves were so bad it affected my stomach—seems like it was tied in a knot all the time. Couldn't sleep either—just roll and toss all night. I couldn't hardly do my housework—and I was always cross and irritable. One day I heard about how other folks were being helped by HADACOL. I tried HADACOL and after the 2nd bottle I began to feel better. Now my nerves are steady as can be—no more ill effect on my stomach—I sleep like a top—in fact, I feel wonderful, thanks to marvelous HADACOL."

Yes, HADACOL Is Marvelous in the way it has helped thousands of folks whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin. HADACOL can help you, too, if you have such deficiencies if you will just give HADACOL a chance. If you are suffering from nervousness, insomnia, or a general run-down condition, caused by such deficiencies, let HADACOL help you as it has helped others all over the country.

Many Doctors Recommend HADACOL

HADACOL is that wonderful new product recommended by many doctors. It is not a quick-acting product which gives only symptomatic relief—HADACOL is so successful because it relieves the real cause of stomach disturbances and a general run-down nervous condition when caused by deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin. So if you're troubled this way, don't keep on putting off relieving the real cause of your trouble. Remarkable improvements are often noticed within a short time.

Get That Wonderful HADACOL Feeling

The great advantage in taking HADACOL is that continued use of this grea tproduct helps prevent such stomach misery and nervousness from coming back to torture you. Know what it means to enjoy that wonderful, wonderful HADACOL feeling!

HALF YOUR WORLD IS STILL HUNGRY!

"When I was hungry ye gave me meat . . .
Naked and ye clothed me." — St. Matthew.

In the teeming expellee camps in Germany . . . in the barracks of the new immigrants in Israel . . . the thousands of refugees in Pakistan and India . . . the A-bomb victims in Japan . . . all these people — your people — are hungry.

And cold.

And often bitter and sick.

And when people are hungry and sick and cold, you can't expect to have a peaceful world.

What can one person do to help?

Well, here is one answer:

CARE, a non-profit, non-sectarian organization is attempting to aid the cause of peace by feeding and clothing needy people throughout the world. Since the end of the war, the American people have sent more than 9 million CARE packages overseas. Some were sent to friends . . . some were sent to relatives . . . some were "undesignated" packages — food for "a hungry child in Germany" or "a war orphan in the Philippines."

All nine million were delivered, of course, for CARE guarantees delivery or your money back.

CARE packages are duty free and ration free and the recipient pays nothing.

If you have friends or relatives overseas, help them with a CARE package now!

If you don't — but want to help — CARE will accept your donation in any amount toward CARE packages to help feed the hungry . . . to clothe the naked . . .

KOREA. Twenty miles from Seoul, Korea, on a rocky hillside is a collection of pathetic mud huts. This is a leper camp . . . no one is permitted to leave . . . ever. This baby has shown no signs of leprosy yet, but his mother is a leper and his father is a leper . . . and soon he, too, will succumb.

The weather here is bitter. His proud mother beams as Maryknoll Father George Carroll presents him with a CARE Woolen Package . . . for the first time he will have his own little suit . . . He is one of those who need your CARE . . . now!

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, August 27.

The golden text is: "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous branch, and a king shall reign and prosper, and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth. . . . And this is his name whereby he shall be called, The Lord Our Righteousness." (Jer. 23:5-6).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, thy God reigneth." (Isa. 52:7).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The supremacy of spirit was the foundation on which Jesus built." (P. 138).

God does not do it, he leaves them to their own agency to combat with the trials, temptations, adversities, and evils of every kind that are in the world, to which humanity is, or can be incident. He puts within their reach, however, certain principles and would like to lead them to himself if they would be led. If not, then he does the very best with them that he can."—John Taylor (third president of the church).

VEGETABLES MEAN DOLLARS

Tel Aviv, Israel—(AP)—Israelis say canned vegetables are worth "their weight in gold"—and the gold they want is more foreign money. A canning factory at Raanana reported it had received large orders from abroad and had boosted its employment schedule to two shifts of 140 workers to prepare shipments. The factory already has shipped 18,000 cans of cabbage and 40,000 cans of cucumbers to England. Israeli steamers are to transport 100,000 cans of Israeli cucumbers to the United States.

Bible Comments

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

When we think of the Babe born at Bethlehem, we would say "Mary of Bethlehem," but when we think of the formative years of Jesus, growing up in the home in Nazareth, Mother Mary, of Nazareth, ought to have a larger place in our thoughts.

In our emphasis upon the divinity of Jesus we sometimes forget that His divinity was revealed in a true humanity, the incarnation of the divine in a normally human life, "the man Christ Jesus" growing up from childhood to manhood. In that childhood and growth we cannot overemphasize the influence of His Mother.

If we were to seek a human parallel, near to our own time, it might be found in the childhood of Abraham Lincoln. His mother died when he was only nine years old, but during those nine years she had read the Bible to him; taught him to read it; told him the stories children love to hear; and given him precious guidance.

A stepmother, who loved him, and whom he loved, completed that motherly influence but there is little doubt that the future greatness of the man had its secret in the influence of those early years.

Could we picture that home in Nazareth, we should see a Mother pondering in her heart (Luke 2:19) the experience of His birth and consecration. Possibly she sensed the destiny of the child in wonderment and sadness as she thought of the prophecy, "A sword shall pierce thine own soul."

We should see a Mother inspiring Him with the story of Israel's great saints and prophets, of God's call and choice, and His purposes of human redemption. We cannot begin to picture the glory of all that happened in that Nazareth home.

The New Testament records reveal Mary as the greatest of mothers, the worthy Mother of her greater son. she was blessed among women because her character was blessed. She was among the devout souls looking earnestly and hopefully for the coming of the Messiah, "the consolation of Israel."

Her song of praise, called "The Magnificat" (Luke 1:46-55), is one of spiritual grandeur: "My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God, my Savior."

But the supreme revelation of the greatness of Mary was in the hour of her Son's supreme sacrifice. The simple record is in the Gospel of John: "Now there stood by the cross of Jesus His mother." She was there in the hour of her Son's crucifixion.

Perhaps, like myself, you have read these words, without visualizing the actual scene. I confess that I never saw in them their full dramatic tragedy, and glory, until during the four long years of World War II.

As I ministered to a comparatively small congregation with over 80 men fighting at the front, I looked, Sunday after Sunday, into the faces of women, whose sons were out in the battlefields of France and Tarawa. It was then that I understood motherhood. Their eyes, shining with abiding courage, devotion and faith, recalled the walk of a mother through the streets of Nazareth to the cross where her son was nailed.

Is there a greater story in all of history than that of Mary's strength and love?

James Marlow:

THE NATION TODAY

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series explaining the big changes voted by congress in the social security program. The president seems certain to approve them. Therefore, hese changes will be treated as if they had become law.)

Washington, Aug. 26.—(AP)—If you feel ambitious, here's how to figure social security pensions, now and in the future.

Remember:

1. No one gets a pension unless he's worked a certain number of quarters in a job covered by the law. A quarter is three months.

2. Starting Sept. 1, a man now 65 or nearing it, needs only six quarters of coverage to get a pension.

3. No matter how big a man's earnings, until Jan. 1, 1951, he gets credit for no more than $3,000 a year ($250 a month) because no one is taxed for more than that.

(On Jan. 1 the taxable income goes up to $3,600 a year ($300 a month). So then a man gets social security for $300 monthly, if he makes it.)

Let's start. Say Jones in December will be 65. He wants a pension. He needs only six quarters' coverage but has 20.

For those 20 quarters (60 months, 5 years) in a covered job he got $300 a month but received credit for only $250. Now you get down to the formula.

1. Multiply his total number of covered months, 60, by his income for each month ($250). That's $15,000 for 60 months in covered work.

But the government wants a man's average earnings since the start of the program, Jan. 1, 1937, and the time he retires. In Jones' case, retiring in December, it's 168 months. So—

2. To find his average for 168 months, divide his $15,000 earned in 60 covered months of work by 5. Result: $89 average. Then—

3. The formula calls for taking 40 per cent of the first $50 of a man's average earnings and adding 10 per cent of the remaining 200.

(This is aimed at the highest possible average earnings of $250 a month. But to have that much, a man must have worked in a covered job ever since Jan. 1, 1937, ane earned $250 a month.)

But Jones' average turns out to be only $89. So take 40 per cent of the first $50 of it ($20) and add it to 10 per cent of the remaining $39 ($3.90) for a total of $23.90.

At this point the government gives a man a one per cent benefit for each year in covered work. Jones had five years. Five per cent of $23.90 is $1.19. Added to the $23.90, the total is $25.09.

Is that his pension? Not quite. It would have been until September, when pensions were raised. But starting Sept. 1, the government added something brand new: A conversion table (explained Thursday, Aug. 24) and applies it to his August pension rate to give him the increase called for by the table.

That table says Jones' pension in December should be $46.50 a month. (Under that September raise, no pension can be more than $68.50. About $46 will be the average monthly pension paid after September.)

Therefore—for 60 months, or five years under social security, Jones winds up with a pension of $46.50 a month.

So far we've been talking about the formula as it is now and will be for some time. Now go on to the next point.

Jones had wanted to quit in December, 1950. But on Jan. 1, 1951, the amount of taxable income goes up from the present $3,000 a year ($250 a month) to $3,600 a year ($300 a month).

And —on July 1, 1952, a still higher pension than began in September 1950 will go into effect. But —only those going on pension after July 1, 1952 can get it.

Take Jones again. Instead of quitting at 65 in December, he decides to keep on working till July 1, 1952, to get a crack at that top pension which begins then.

He's still making $300 a month, just as he was in the past when he only got social security credit for $250 when $250 was top taxable income. But now, since social security taxable income becomes $300 he can get credit for all of it. Is that his only reason for keeping on working? No.

There's another good reason in his case. Since he had credit for only 20 quarters of earnings under the old system—and they had to be averaged over the whole 168 months between Jan. 1, 1937 and Jan. 1, 1950, by dividing them by 168—he felt he was at a disadvantage.

Like anyone else whose coverage was small under the old system, he could elect to start fresh on Jan. 1, 1951, and, because he was already 65, it would work to his advantage, particularly since his pay was good.

This is why. Starting Jan. 1, 1951, he worked another 18 months (six quarters) and then quit on July 1, 1952. Now he only had six quarters to his credit. Under the old system he had 20.

But you say: "Actually, Jones has 26 quarters to his credit: Six after next Jan. 1 and 20 he earned between 1936 and 1951.)

True, but because it's to his advantage, Jones can throw away those 20 quarters under the old system and keep the six in the new.

Why? Because, as explained, a man now around 65 needs only six quarters to get a pension. By working those six quarters after Jan. 1, 1951, all he needs, Jones can claim full coverage under the new system. Under the old system he had 20 out of 168 quarters.

Now the formula is a little different in figuring Jones' pension.

1. He had six quarters of coverage after Jan. 1, 1951 and got paid $300 a month, a total of $5,400 for the 18 months he worked. He does not go back now all the way to 1936 to divide his 18 months by all the months since 1936.

No, Jan. 1, 1951 is now the start for him. He divides the $5,400 he got in 18 months by the 18 months that elapses between Jan. 1 and the time he takes his pension, July 1, 1952. His average income turns out to be $300 (not $89 as it was under the old system.)

Now there's another change for those going on pension after July 1, 1952. Take 50 per cent of the first $100 of a man's average income $50) and the 15 per cent of the next $200 ($30). Add the $30 and $50 in this case because Jones' average income happened to be $300, and you get a total of $80. Is this his pension? Yes. It's also the highest pension anyone can get after July 1, 1952.

What about that interest credit under the old formula? It's dropped under the new. What about the conversion table used after Sept. 1, 1950? Dropped, too, on figuring incomes for people with the new start.

Some people with little coverage or income before Jan. 1, 1951 will now take the new start, if they're doing well. Others will benfit by keeping what they got before 1951.

Social security people will figure out future pensioners' benefits for them both ways, or combine them, to give them what's biggest.

DeWitt Mackenzie:

Mackenzie's Column

Strange to say, there still are folk who hold the quaint—and dangerous—belief that ideas can be killed by destroying the books in which they are recorded.

The New York Times deals with a concrete example of this fallacy in an editorial regarding the report that Mao Tze-Tung, Chinese Communist leader, recently ordered the burning of books which his regime considered "reactionary and anti-people." Says the Times;

"On this list could be found the works of Confucius, the Chinese Book of Poetry, the Book of History, along with the more contemporary writings of Sun Yat-Sen and 'China's Destiny,' by Chiang Kai-Shek.

"When we see a person trying to wipe out of existence recorded human thinking we cannot help but be amazed at the naivete which prompts such an action. The logic is that if the ideas do not exist physically they will not exist any other way.

"The error in this kind of reasoning is, of course, that an idea does not have to be printed or recorded to be influential or potent. . . . The power that orders the burning of books admits that it governs not by reason and logic but by violence and mood."

Probably there are few people in American who have the notion that ideas can be killed by destroying written records of them. Still, it is given to suspect that a good many have in effect been acting on that principle in withholding the truth about communism from our younger generation, for fear youth will be contaminated.

What set me thinking along this line was the letter I recently published in this column from a Cincinnati young lady who someday "will help to run the government of this great country." She was being told to fear communism. However, she didn't know what communism was, so how could she fear it. She asked me if I would tell her about communism.

Readers may recall that I answered Miss Cincinnati through this column. My reward was a nice letter of thanks, and the assurance that at last she understood the meaning of communism.

Well, now, this is far from being an isolated case. As a matter of fact my guess is that it's typical of teen-agers throughout the country. The meaning of communism, and the other isms, hasn't been explained to them, probably on the same basis that a generation ago young people weren't supposed to know the facts of life until they were old enough to get married.

That strikes me as being all wrong. Young people surely should know the meaning of a communism which has the whole world by the ears. It's dangerous for them to be kept in ignorance.—Prey to Red agents who are only too anxious to present their side of the picture.

One quite realizes that the problem of presenting this information properly is a difficult one. Perhaps it is a task for our top educators.

Certainly it must be made sure that the imparting of the facts is shorn of any possible "advocacy" of this ism which has been labeled subversive by the United States government. Rather the schooling should be in the nature of a warning against the perils of flirting with a political creed which calls for the overthrow of the American government by force.

In any event, there's no use trying to prevent contamination by burning books.

BUYS BOMB WITH HOME

San Bernardino, Calif.—(AP)—E. S. Winter got more than he bargained for when he bought his new home. He decided to clean out a closet. Reaching up to remove some junk from a shelf, his hand brushed a cold, hard, unfamiliar object. It was a live bomb. Police officers, to whom Winters took the bomb, said it was the type used by the air force for bomb practice. It was about 16 inches long and weighed 13 pounds.

Bob Thomas:

IN MOVIELAND

Hollywood, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Fast-traveling Frank Sinatra is back in Hollywood momentarily, glowing with praise for England's Princess Margaret.

The lean crooner, who has made six Atlantic flights in the last four months, just returned from singing at London's Palladium theater. He is here briefly before embarking on a new television and radio career. When I saw him, he enthused about England's younger princess.

"She's just as 'hep' as any American girl," he declared. "Maybe more so. She's up on all the latest records and movies, and she has a lot of wit and charm, too.

"She'd be a smash if she came to this country. She'd be the best ambassador England ever had."

About the princess' musical taste, Frankie said: "She apparently goes for the ballad type of song. She has a big collection of records and knows the musicians on the various songs, and everything.

"She also said she had seen 'On the Town,' (the film with Sinatra and Gene Kelly) and said it was delightful."

Frankie met the duke of Edinburgh while his wife, Princess Elizabeth, was awaiting her second child.

"He's a regular guy," said Frankie. "He's got a real head on his shoulders, too."

The singer told of pacing the floor with his pal Toots Shor, Broadway restaurateur and character, whose wife was expecting a baby in New York. The Shors finally got what they wanted—a boy.

Sinatra flew to London the next day and when he met the duke, the nobelman also was awaiting word from his wife.

"This is what we in England call 'watching the pot,' " said the duke.

"What do you want—boy or girl?" Frankie asked.

"We have a boy, so we're hoping for a girl," was the answer.

"I brought a friend of mine luck," answered the boy from Hoboken. "Maybe I'll do the same for you."

"And what do you know?" Frankie said to me. "They had a girl!"

The crooner will soon leave for New York, where he will start his weekly hour-long television show and an hour-long radio show besides. Since these will consume most of his time, I asked if he will give up the movies.

"Oh, no," he answered. "I plan to do a picture next June when I'm off the air. I have several on the fire—including one to do, G. B. Shaw's 'Androcles and the Llon,' in Italy. Who knows?—I might even go back to M-G-M."

CRIME PROBERS TO INVADE N. O.

Investigating Committees Laying Groundwork For hearing This Fall

Washington, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Secret agents of the senate crime investigating committees have been in New Orleans laying groundwork for hearings there this fall.

This was revealed yesterday by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D.-Tenn.), chairman of the committee.

"We have had investigators working under cover in New Orleans and have received a great deal of information that people sent in," Kefauver said. "We have gone pretty thoroughly into the situation in New Orleans".

Kefauver said the committee would come to New Orleans for hearings when congress adjourned or when legislative business in Washington would permit.

He said no definite schedule had been worked out but he thought hearings would be fitted into the group's plans.

The committee may hold hearings in Kansas City, Mo., first because of Republican pressure. Republicans are anxious to turn the spotlight on Missouri, home state of President Truman, before the November elections.

Two investigators for the crime committee were in New Orleans at different times about six weeks ago, Kefauver said. He said no investigators for the committee were there now.

Among those who said he had sent information to the committee was New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison. Morrison said he did not know of the presence of the investig tors in New Orleans.

Police Supt. Joseph Scheuering commented:

BOOKKEEPER TURNS TO ROSIN

Lake Butler, Fla.—(AP)—One day Tom Aycock of the Aycock-Lindsey Corporation a turpentine firm here, mentioned that he needed another rosin grader. Mary Margaret Rualerson, a bookkeeper for the firm, said jokingly: "Let me grade it." He did and now Miss Raulerson is the first woman authorized by the U. S. department of agriculture to grade rosin. "I was a trifle nervous at first," she said. "But I got over that and finally caught on." In her work Miss Raulerson classifies the rosin after it is processed in the firm's twin-fire still and put in drums. She compares samples from each drum with a U. S. bureau of standards grading chart. On an average she grades about 42 drums a day.

MANAGES RECREATION CENTER

Jack Hesketh Promotes Sports In Twin Cities

Increases Softball Teams Into Sixty-Nine Clubs As Head Of Monroe Recreation Center; Program Booms Under His Direction

By Louis Mathis
(Of the Morning World Staff)

Thanks to husky, 36-year-old Jack Hesketh, Monroe has more ball players per square inch than Bayou Mason has frogs.

Hesketh is the man who took over Monroe Recreation Center in 1946, when it had ten haphazard ball clubs, and revamped it into a streamlined, clicking organization that has outgrown its home.

The 10 softball teams turned into 69 clubs, ranging from the eight-year-old Peewees to balding players in clubs like the Lions, Kiwanis and Optimists.

"That," Jack will say modestly, "doesn't include 33 basketball teams."

He doesn't mention his cramped schedule that begins at daybreak and lasts until late at night, when the last team releases a dusty, happy gang of youngsters to report the final score.

During the early years of World War II, a cry for city recreation went up that side-tracked war news and relegated zoo-suit riots to the back page. Juvenile crime waves were running rampant through larger cities, and parents realized for the first time the necessity for organized, city-financed programs to keep the kids off the streets.

In 1942, Jack, then a captain in the Salvation Army, was called to Chicago to help organize and manage an "Off the Streets" club for boys and girls. For four years he accumulated a wealth of first-hand experience that prepared him for his present work.

By January, 1946, Monroe was yelling for help and Jack came back to finish what teachers and ministers were unable to finish—complete development of the child. Because teachers can hold a boy for only a few short hours a day. Churches get their brief chance for a few minutes on Sunday.

And after the mental and moral instructors have their fling, Jack finds the youngster a spot on one of his ball clubs, playgrounds, or in the "Rec" building.

"Rec" center is not restricted by age limits because there is no age limit on criminality. A boy with a deeply ingraned love for sports has little room left for the "who cares" attitude that is bred by parental neglect, and nurtured by loneliness.

"Next thing on the program," says Jack, "is a search for more room. We need a gymnasium badly. Besides the gym, we need a softball diamond that can be used strictly for the Recreation teams."

Jack believes that with access to a good diamond, Monroe can play a leading role in state competition.

Work Recognized

A member of the Kiwanis Club, Exchange Club, and Masonic Lodge, Western Star No. 24, Jack has long been recognized for his ability to produce results.

A lot of boys and girls have grown up in Monroe, with a strong memory of the part Jack played in their growth. Boys like Billy Gimler, 19, now playing professional ball in the Evangeline League, and C. J. Fontana, 21, who spent three years on a Yankee farm branch, grew up under his watchful eye.

In all likelihood, Monroe's Recreation manager will continue in his present job. He sees one thing that may change his mind. An all-out war, with a big increase in draftees, may find Jack and his youthful friends fighting on the same team, in a foxhole somewhere in the Pacific.

ITALY AIDS HOUSING

Rome.—(AP)—A $40,000,000 home-building assistance program designed to ease Italy's war-born housing shortage was approved by the parliament on the eve of adjournment for the summer vacation. Under the measure, $16,000,000 will be available to private builders during the remainder of 1950 and $17,000,000 a year during 1951 and 1952. The measure specifies that houses or apartments have minimum of two and a maximum of five rooms (in Italy the kitchen and bath are not counted as rooms. Persons owning adequate living quarters are excluded from the benefits of the measure.

HANDBAG SNATCHING

Khartoum.—(AP)—The southern Sudan equivalent of handbag snatching made an appearance in Equatoria Province.

A woman had gone to collect her husband's spear from the blacksmith and do a little shopping. She started home with her purchases, a tin of oil and a gourd of flour, balanced on her head—the usual way of carrying things.

Two boys from a mission school snatched the oil and flour and ran off. The woman, said the official police report, "showed great restraint and did not use the spear."

McDougald's Five Mystery Novels Are Paying Off

Clayton, La., Author's Latest Novel Is Selection Of Unicorn Mystery Book Club Of The Month; Has Published Several Other Books

By Otis Hassell
(Morning World Correspondent)

Winnsboro, La., Aug. 29.—Roman McDougald, 42-year-old talented author of Clayton, La., has done it again! By that I mean he has written another mystery noval, "The Woman Under The Mountain," his fifth book, which is a selection of the Unicorn Mystery Book Club for this month.

This book, as the other four, was published by Simon & Schuster of New York. "The Deaths of Lora Karen" was his first book, "The Whistling Legs" second, "Purgatory Street" third and his fourth book was "Lady Without Mercy".

"The Woman Under the Mountain" has received very favorable comment from critics. The Monroe Morning World in the issue of Sunday, Aug. 13, under the heading, "news from the public library" said, "Roman McDougald is one of the leading modern writers of mystery stories. His stories are well written and different. His latest novel is concerned with a case of double identity and impersonation by means of plastic surgery. Mystery story readers will not want to miss "The Woman Under the Mountain".

Roman lives with his mother at Clayton, and at 42 remains a bachelor. He is past master of the Ferriday Lodge No. 330 F. and A. M. He is also a member of the Royal Arch, Ferriday, and past worthy patron of the Ferriday Eastern Star. He served in World War II and is a member of the Ferriday post of the American Legion. He is also a member of the Mystery Writers of America, Inc.

McDougald is a brilliant conversationalist. One would never guess he was an author unless he told them. The following autobiographical sketch, which he sent to the Unicorn Mystery Book Club at their request, may give you a hint as to his personality.

"As a former librarian who rigorously cross-examined all patrons returning books, I have developed certain theories as to what people like in fiction. As a student in psychology and an amateur hypnotist I have evolved others, one of my pet ones being that there is a close analogy between the hypnotic method and effective writing. In the role of an accountant, I have wrestled so long with the mathematical intricacies of taxpayers that most other forms of mystery now seem to be absurdly simple.

"I was born (I understand) in the small Louisiana town of Vidalia, which is just across the Mississippi river from the historic city of Natchez, Miss. Now, some years later, I find myself living in the even smaller town of Clayton, which is exactly twelve miles from my birthplace.

"I have not spent the intervening period solely in traversing this modest distance but have passed parts of it at such places as Tulane University, where I received what I sometimes humorously refer to as my education; in travel; and, during the late unpleasantness, in the army of the United States, where I served in field artillery. The latter episode would no doubt have ended happily except for the army's insistence, based upon their own estimate of my I. Q., that I simply had to become an officer and a gentleman.

"As a result I eventually became a casualty of O. C. S., winding up in a hospital from which the army, on sober, second thought discharged me as a subject quite unfit for either the Japs or the Germans to shoot at.

"After my discharge I decided that since civilization was about to end anyway, I might as well try my hand at a mystery novel. I had previously tried the aforesaid hand at some seven other novels—all very serious—which I had destroyed without letting anyone see them. The mystery was, therefore, the first book I had ever actually finished and submitted to a publisher; and incredibly enough it sold in its final form to the first one who saw it which was Simon & Schuster. Even more unexpectedly, the book turned out to be what somebody with perhaps a Hollywood turn of mind referred to as a phenomenal success.

"It was logical, then, if not inevitable, for me to write another; and the second did even better, being, among other things, a selection of Unicorn. But it was with my third, Purgatory Street, that I hit what my agent, A. L. Fierst, termed the jackpot; it sold to a big slick, to the movies, the radio, and a number of other markets of whose existence I had hitherto had only the vaguest idea, including such rather fantastic things as African serial rights.

"That astute critic, Anthony Boucher, referred to it in his review as the worst novel I had written and the one that would probably make my fortune; now, in sober retrospect I am forced to conclude that Mr. Boucher was perfectly right on both counts.

"My travels have been so largley in the west and south of the border that it now seems remarkable that I am not a prolific writer of westerns instead of an occasional writer of mysteries. If I had followed the classic advice to write about that which one knows best, I would have undoubtedly have embarked long ago on a career as a potential successor to the late Zane Grey. Actually, there are numerous things that I know more about than I know about murder. Although I have done all the required reading for the course, I have never had any first-hand experience with a murder case and I have never stumbled in the dark across a body weltering in its gore. In the improbable event that I ever do, I shall no doubt run like hell.

"As for my being a man of mystery, the only thing about me that seems to puzzle my friends is the fact that I remain a bachelor, and they periodically ask for an explanation of what they choose to regard as this phenomenon. To these inquiries I regularly reply that I can only explain it by a theory that I have never yet run across a young woman who was sufficiently eccentric to want to marry me badly enough to take th necessary pains to accomplish it. . . ."

The Clayton writer is now working on his sixth mystery novel.

White Hair Turns Brown

By Eldon Roark
NEA Special Correspondent

Memphis, Tenn.—(NEA)—If Rev. L. A. Streete of Memphis knew the secret of what happened on top of his head he probably could make a million dollars.

Reverend Streete was 78 on July 23. He used to have thick, snow-white hair. His hair is still thick, but now it is a dark brown. It is just like it was when he was a young man.

And he hasn't done a thing to make it that way.

Back in 1943 Reverend Streete had a spell of sickness, and nearly all of his hair came out. In a few months, though, new hair started growing "a full shock of it," and it was white.

About two years later his hair started turning a dark brown. And not it has completed the change.

Reverend Streete hasn't talked to any scientists about it, but he has talked to barbers. They say they've never heard of such a development.

MINING COUPLE

Gold Rush Pays Off

Retired Construction Worker Is Successful Prospector

AP Newsfeatures

Frazier Park, Calif.—A retired construction worker and his wife are grubbing gold ore—some of it worth $240 a ton—from a shaft sunk almost 200 years ago by Spaniards and Indians.

Working his own mine is a dream come true for V. F. Baggett, 53, who worked 25 years in the construction department of 20th-Century Fox studios to save enough money to satisfy his ambition.

He took a three-year course in minerology before he headed into "the hills for good. He staked his first claims in death valley before World War II, but had to abandon them when the navy took over the area.

Then, through a bureau of mines official in Los Angeles, he heard a tale of lost mines on Frazier Mountain—50 miles northwest of Los Angeles in the Los Padres national forest. Legend says that gold from these diggings supported and maintained several early Spanish missions. Baggett says one old timer told him Indians, bearing heavy ore baskets, trudged over the mountains to Santa Barbara and Ventura where the gold was loaded on ships. When white men followed the Indians home the redskins invariably disappeared.

Baggett staked claims, bought 300 acres of land and brought in machinery over mountain trails. Designating Mrs. B. as superintendent, one half the work crew and chief of the fireworks (he is allergic to dynamite), he started working the dump of one of the three known Spanish mines nearby.

After three months the couple unearthed the portal of the mine. Inside, they saw a shovel leaning against a rock. In fresh air the blade quickly disintegrated into a pile of rust, leaving only a curving, hand-hewn handle.

At first it appeared the long-dead miners had removed all the high-grade ore. But as he followed the gold vein deep into the tunnel, Baggett noted that at one point the ore richened. He is now digging a new tunnel and bringing out dirt assaying $210 a ton—rich stuff.

How much have they earned? Baggett prefers not to say. But he considers the $83,000 he's devoted to developing the mine well spent.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Omaha.—(AP)—Frank Gulgard says "Happy Birthday!" between 4,000 and 5,000 times a year.

A high-school physics instructor, he began sending his students singing telegrams long before a telegraph company started them, because he wanted a closer personal contact. He extended his list to include those he commanded in a high school regiment for 20 years.

Today he telephones, calls or sends anniversary greetings to students and alumni scattered all over the globe. He says: "To every person a birthday is an important date."

U. S. Gets Worst Deal In Yokosuka

AP Newsfeatures

Tokyo—The United States acquired a cut-rate naval base and the Japanese got a new industrial city when once-secret Yokosuka was turned over to the occupation.

This in effect was the description given by Rear Adm. Benton W. Decker, Yokosuka commander, in an Armed Forces radio station interview.

It Cost U. S. Nothing

"This $60,000,000 base initially cost us nothing," he said. "To maintain it costs us only the pay of our officers and men and a very small part of the materials for repair purposes."

The base; capable of drydocking large ships, has handled many vessels the past three years.

Decker took command more than three years ago with orders to destroy Yokosuka. He didn't want to and finally convinced authorities in Washington.

What the Navy Did

This is what Decker said the navy has done:

Converted former naval buildings into more than 80 Japanese factories.

Diverted to civilian economy 150,000 tons of iron scrap and thousands of tons of other materials.

In all, returned to the Japanese people 90 per cent of the naval arsenal for peacetime use.

Opened commercial harbor facilities.

Provided wood (from old naval buildings) for Yokosukans during the first postwar winter.

Before the war, the Imperial Navy was the sole enterprise permitted in this city of 270,000 persons.

Unpaid Stars Love La Jolla Playhouse

AP Newsfeatures

La Jolla, Calif. — It's almost against the law to hurry here but the people do get out and around on the quiet summer evenings.

They help support the La Jolla Playhouse—America's only legitimate theater project owned, managed, financed and operated by a group of nationally-known professional actors.

Top man in the organization is Gregory Peck, a La Jolla boy who made good in Hollywood and elsewhere, La Jolla Playhouse, Inc., boasts two other Hollywood stars—Dorothy McGuire and Mel Ferrer.

This is their fourth season. The normally high-salaried talent of the casts—names that have been in bright-lights of theater marquees all over the country—work for love of their art at La Jolla high school auditorium.

Among those who have performed there during the previous three years include the late Jane Cowl, Anne Harding, Larraine Day, Martha Scott, Eve Arden, Barry Sullivan, Ruth Hussey, Guy Madison, Dianna Lynn, Sylvia Sidney, Reginald Denny, John Ireland, Richard Basehart and others of national note in their professino.

The founders wanted a west coast summer stage to carry on the tradition of the legitimate theater and to give at least one new play a tryout each season.

Last year the Playhouse got into the black for the first time with an operating profit and was able to pay off half of the Selznick loan. Further reduction of that debt seems certain this year.

Monroe Recruiters Doing Big Business

By Jim Reynolds
(Of the Morning World Staff)

Business is booming in many fields as a result of the Korean situation, but the biggest increase in demand has probably appeared in the armed forces recruiting programs.

Army, air force, navy and marine recruiters in the Twin Cities report a real "rush hour" trade in recent weeks. Young men, especially those in the draft-eligible classifications, are flooding the offices in numbers unprecedented in previous peacetime years.

As an example, July, 1950 brought a total of 87 new recruits to the navy through the Monroe recruiting office. In July, 1949 only 17 young Twin City men joined the fleet through the local office.

The marines, even though operating on a quota system, reflect the trend toward expansion also. In July, 1949, the quota for marines was two. The quota was filled. This year, in July, there was no limit on the number of recruits, and a total of 10 volunteers succeeded in passing the strict entrance requirements of the leathernecks.

Perhaps the greatest "spread" between the number of volunteers last year and this year is indicated in the figures released by the army and air force office in Monroe. In July of 1949, the office processed and accepted a total of 11 recruits. In the same month of this year, a total of 30 men passed through the office on their way to the service.

The first fifteen days of August also reflect the growing trend toward enlisting. The navy reported only 11 new enlistees in the first portion of August of last year, though 47 men signed up in the same period this year.

In the marine corps, for the same comparative period only one of the two recruits accepted in August 1949 was signed up by the fifteenth. This month's first half yielded 15 leathernecks, with more applying every day.

August's first 15 days of last year meant seven new army and air force recruits. The comparable period this year added 15 new men to the armed forces lists, with many more awaiting processing.

Listed by the recruiting officers as one of the main causes of the rush to the colors is what a navy chief called "The feeling that they're going to get hooked, anyhow, so they might as well get in while the gettin's good."

Listed as a strong contributory cause to the rush, especially by the army and air force, is the recent call for a new batch of draftees. "When they get that draft notice," said a recruiting sergeant, "it's too late to do anything but pack. Until then, they've got a good chance to pick what they want."

Whether it's under the assumption that dropping atom bombs will be the most important task of the war most recruits expect, or whether it's simply because of the glamour of the service, most of the potential servicemen who drop in at the army and air force office want to get into the air arm. The navy, too, has felt a strong demand for posts in the seagoing air service, with more young men requesting technical training than previously.

A general observation made on the new crop of recruits was passed by one of the recruiters who preferred to remain anonymous. He remarked, "They sure don't remind you too much of the guys who signed up during the war. Then, all a man wanted to do was go somewhere he could do some shootin'. Now everybody wants to be an engineer first."

Marshall Plan Aids France's Steel Industry

By NEA Foreign Service

Paris—(NEA)—In two years, roaring blast furnaces and smoky skies in the heart of France's richest iron ore region will signify one of the Marshall Plan's top industrial recovery projects on the European continent.

To France this project called "SOLLAC" is a trump card in meeting her 1953 steel capacity target of 12.5 million metric tons of crude steel. It also stands for more automobiles, more radios, more refrigerators and, combined with other steel enterprises, an anticipated national income of $23,000,000 annually in foreign exchange.

In 1930 France produced 9,447,000 tons of steel, 10 per cent of world production. Because of war damage and other disruptions, by 1945 production had dropped to 1,661,000 tons.

Without financial assistance from ECA, the French steel industry has been able to reinstall and reactivate the blast furnaces required to bring French production to 9,124,000 tons, only three per cent less than their 1930 production.

SOLLAC (Scoiete Lorraine de Laminage Continu) is an organization of nine leading nine leading steel firms which have been given priority to modernize the industry and boost production. The project is located near Hayange, "Pittsburgh of France," close to the Saar.

The economic cooperation administration, throwing its financial backing into the enterprise, has earmarked $49,360,000 for equipment. The balance of the cost is expected to come from the French counterpart fund, the modernization fund and normal financial channels, and will cover labor and materials to be obtained in France.

The SOLLAC project's 80-inch mill frequently is referred to as "the second continuous strip mill." Construction work on a 66-inch mill at Denain, in the northern French coal basin, began in 1947 and is being completed with the help of $12,000,000 in Marshall Plan funds.

France's new steel mills are expected to reduce or even eliminate sheet and tin plate imports. In 1948, France and her overseas territories imported 94,000 tons of sheet and tin plate at a cost of $18,000,000 in foreign exchange.

Iran Puzzled By Russians

Iranians Are Wondering If Their Oil Fields Are Next On Red's Timetable

By Robert Hewett
AP Newsfeatures

Tehran, Iran—The Russian bear is making purring sounds of friendship at Iran. It's a strange switch to Iranians, wondering whether their oil fields are next on the Communist timetable of conquest.

Some western diplomats think the new friendship is aimed at exploiting disappointment at the slowness of U. S. aid for Iran. Others see it as a smokescreen.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan Sadchikov called on Premier Ali Razmara to say his government was especially enthusiastic about making a trade barter deal with Iran.

Western diplomats here now discount talk of an Iranian invasion—unless Russia is willing to gamble on a third world war. They cite the fact that there is no crundly organized puppet government to take the rap for a move into Iran. There are reported to be only a few hundred Iranian Kurds and Azerbaijanis in Russia.

If Iran is invaded, these sources say, it will have to be naked aggression by Soviet troops. Americans believe the anti-Communist Shah would never sanction a deal that would make Iran a Soviet satellite.

So they are quietly encouraging any move that might take the Red heat off Iran temporarily—even a Russo-Iranian trade agreement. The idea is to gain time for the long-discussed American aid to get started and show results. If and when American aid begins to become effective, Russia is expected to drop her latest friendship line with Iran.

Although Iran is one of the most strategic spots on Russia's border—the Persian Gulf oil pool is the largest in the world—she has received no economic assistance from the U. S.

U. S. military mission is here training the Iranian army of 150,000 men now to use some $10,000,000 worth of American arms given in 1948. The state department, however, has refused to recommend loans or grants to past governments because it feared corrupt officials would get the money.

U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady thinks the tide has turned, however, with the recent appointment of Premier Razmara. Former chief of staff of the army and a staunch anti-Communist, Razmara is known even to his political opponents as an honest man.

Although in office only a few weeks, he has shaken up Iran's graft-ridden bureaucracy, instituted tax measures aimed at the wealthy and professes a desire to cooperate with the United States in building up his country's economy.

American good intentions on economic help, however, are still to be demonstrated in concrete terms.

Iranians greeted with some cynicism the Washington announcement Aug. 3 that the Import-Export bank was sending a mission to report on loan projects. American officials conceded that it would still be five or six months before any Import-Export bank loan would show results in tools and machinery landed in Iran.

Thus any trade deal that Russia may conclude with Iran is bound to be played up here by pro-Communist elements.

Soviet Ambassador Sadchikov reportedly told Premier Razmara a barter deal would be a demonstration of Russia's friendship toward Iran.

But the premier is reported to feel that a few concrete expressions of Soviet "friendship" would be in order first.

OPENS TODAY AT JOY

'Ma And Pa Kettle Go To Town' Is Playing At Joy

Marjorie Main And Percy Kilbride Starred In New Comedy Film

Precedent is established in several ways, in Universal-International's "Ma and Pa Kettle Go To Town," opening today at the Joy Theatre, as far as the formula of the "Kettle" series is concerned.

For one thing, Marjorie Main, co-starring with Percy Kilbride in the film, gets the full glamor treatment for the first time in her lengthy screen career.

The star who has became famous for her slattern characterizations in such films as "The Egg and I" and "Ma and Pa Kettle," two highly successful films in the studio's history, was as excited as a bride when she saw the finery designed for her by Rosemary Odell for her newest picture.

Kilbride also showed excitement as Marjorie strutted in her $400 black and white tie-silk gown, $125 Rex hat and $40 Sak's shoes.

Miss Main, who has worn only tattered aprons and a hair-do resembling a bursted couch in the films which have established her as a top-flight comedy star, took her finery home after the first day on the set, "just to be able to walk around the house in it."

The Kettle troupe worked in New York for two weeks on location, marking the first time Ma and Pa and the kids had worked away from the studio.

Lavish hotel scenes marked this third gathering of the Kettles before the cameras, and the clan also went to location sites in and near the Los Angeles area.

Meg Randall and Richard Long, the romantic pair of the series, worked as a married couple through "Ma and Pa Kettle Go To Town," their nuptials having taken place at the close of the previous film in the series.

Gregory Peck Starred In New Film, 'Gunfighter'

Helen Westcott, Jean Parker Featured In Drama Coming To Paramount

Gregory Peck and Henry King, respectively star and director of one of the year's great hits, "Twelve O'Clock High," have joined forces again for the new Twentieth Century-Fox drama, "The Gunfighter," due to arrive Wednesday at Paramount Theatre. With Peck in the starring role of Jimmie Ringo, outlaw who wants to reform but finds his reputation stacking the cards against him, and the veteran King behind the helm, "The Gunfighter" is a movie that looms large on the film horizon.

The central premise of a gunfighter who can't live down a legendary past that has become reprehensible to him offers film fans a decidedly new twist and offers the film itself a solid moral basis that can't help but give it a stature several cuts above the level of even top western movie fare.

Supporting Peck, who is currently riding high in all polls of film favorites and was an Academy Award nominee this year, are Helen Westcott, lovely newcomer to the screen who jumps from minor parts to a feminine lead in this one; Jean Parker, one of the youngest of the screen veterans, who returns after an overlong mivie holiday; and Millard Mitchell, character actor who has lately distinguished himself in the movies after an honorable long career on Broadway.

Also featured is another trio of New York importations. The stage was good to Karl Malden, giving him leads in both Arthur Miller's "All My Sons" and Tennessee Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire." It was in Williams' other great hit, "The Glass Menagerie" that Anthony Ross first scored mightily. And it was as a boy star in "Tomorrow the World" that Skip Homeier, the grown-up villain of "The Gunfighter," played his first heavy. The balance of the "Gunfighter" company includes Ellen Corby, Verna Felton and Richard Jaeckel.

'The Blue Lagoon' Plays At Joy Drive-In Today

Jean Simmons, who already has proven herself one of the loveliest and most talented young actresses on the screen, is well on her way to establishing herself as the most versatile.

The 19-year-old brunette, who won the applause of critics the world-over for her memorable performance as Ophelia in "Hamlet," which won the Academy Award as the best film of the year, returns to the screen as Emmeline in J. Arthur Rank's "The Blue Lagoon," now playing at the Joy Drive-In Theatre.

This time, Jean plays a young lady who was stranded as a child on a South Pacific island, and grows up in ignorance of civilization. The picture was filmed on location in the Fiji Islands, and features some of the most breathtakingly beautiful Technicolor photography ever to reach the screen.

Miss Simmons, who made her film debut five years ago in "Give Us the Moon," has appeared in a dozen pictures, and handled roles which carried her through the full gamut of dramatic expression, in each case enchanging her reputation as a top-flight actress.

Her best-remembered films, indicating her versatility, include "Caesar and Cleopatra," in which she played a servant of the Egyptian beauty; "Great Expectations," with Jean as young Estella; "Hamlet," and "Black Narcissus," in which she was a Hindu dancer.

LAWS WORRY INNKEEPERS

London.—(AP)—Laws framed hundreds of years ago, when highwaymen terrorized the roads, are worrying British innkeepers. The matter came to a head after a motorist claimed damages for loss of his car stolen from an inn car park. The judge found the innkeeper liable. The old laws were made for protection of travelers against highwaymen. Innkeepers say they were quite reasonable when framed. A thief could hardly break into stables and bring out a horse, much less harness it to a carriage or coach, without the landlord or stable boy knowing it. Today, they say, a car can be driven away from a car park without the landlord's knowing that the driver is not the owner.

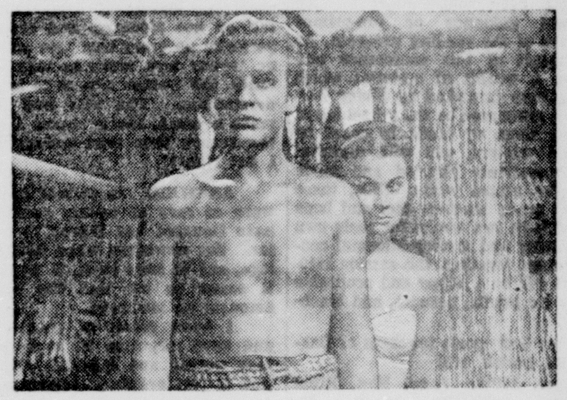
"THE GUNFIGHTER"

The gunfighter can be a man of passion as well as a man of killing which Gregory Peck proves in this romantic scene with Helen Westcott from "The Gunfighter", a western drama coming to the Paramount Theatre Wednesday for a four day engagement.

SWASHBUCKLING ADVENTURE!

Battling Buccaneer! Rafael Sabatini's fabulous pirate hero is seen in all new screen exploits in "Fortunes of Captain Blood" playing a three day engagement at the Paramount Theatre, starting today. Louis Hayward is the dashing hero.

AT JOY DRIVE-IN



Donald Houston and Jean Simmons are the romantic interests in "The Blue Lagoon," a Universal-International release in Technicolor.

FIRST GRADES' TEACHERS MEET

Expect About 800 Pupils To Go To School First Time Sept. 11

The first grade teachers of Ouachita parish, with the prospect of some eight hundred first grade pupils joyfully treking to school on September 11, held an important pre-school meeting August 22. Under the guidance of Mrs. Chrissie H. Williams, supervisor of elementary instruction of Ouachita parish, and Mrs. Helen Rafferty, reading specialist with Silver Burdett and Company, a detailed and critical analysis was made of the primary reading program as presented by Dr. Nila Blanton Smith in the series of primary readers, which were recently adopted as the basic series for Ouachita parish school system.

Supt. Mack Avants and several principals were present to lend their enthusiastic support to the teachers' efforts to insure for the primary pupils of Ouachita the best possible opportunities for wholesome living and learning.

Mrs. Rafferty stressed the value and necessity for careful planning for a variety of experiences, especially language experiences, in pre-reading or reading readiness period in order to permit each child to gradually make the physical and emotional adjustments necessitated by this change in his way of life. It is especially during this period that parents and teacher working together can clear the way for successful and happy future learning experience for each child.

In a most interesting and thorough manner, Mrs. Rafferty lead the discussing of and planning for this readiness period and spent much time with the teachers in going over some plans for the initial guidance or pre-primer phase of the reading program. As a result of this conference and with a wealth of material which had been furnished by Silver Burdett, purchased by the school board from them or made to order by local printers, and with material co-operatively planned and made in the school board office, these first grade teachers feel and hope that with two weeks for their own planning and further informal conferences together, the session 1950-1951 will be a happy and profitable one for pupils, parents, and teachers.

The first grade teachers of Ouachita parish are:

Mrs. Lillian Page, Mrs. Ethel D. Young, Mrs. W. T. Worthen, Mis Marie Filhiol, Mrs. Eddie Matthews, Mrs. Frances Odom, Miss Betty Oxford, Miss Fannie Oxford, Mrs. Alpha McGee, Mrs. J. R. Rinehart, Mrs. Elmer Culpepper, Mrs. R. L. Prichard, Mrs. Onis B. Davis, Miss Sara Hair, Mrs. Lynton Culpepper, Miss Betty Waddill, Mrs. Elizabeth Bonnette, Mrs. R. O. Sutton, Mrs. J. L. Heath, Jr., Mrs. H. C. Cook, Jr., Mrs. Virigie C. Larche, Miss Louise Griggs, Mrs. Joya D. Gaster, Mrs. Eva J. Gewin, Mrs. Dwight Owens, Miss Olive S. Gundy, Mrs. H. Clyde Cook, Sr., Mrs. Elizabeth Leake, Mrs. Cleora Wilson.

W. Monroe Girl Takes Vows In St. Louis

The Villa St. Joseph, Ferguson, Missouri was the scene of a beautiful ceremony on August 12, when twelve young novices made their religious profession as Franciscan Sisters of Our Lady of Perpetual Help and two sisters made their perpetual vows.

The celebrant of the mass was Father Eligins, O. F. M., Provincial. Father Henry, O. F. M., former pastor of St. Paschal's Church West Monroe and now president of Quincy College was deacon. He also delivered the beautiful and inspiring sermon. Father Humbert, O. F. M. of Sioux City, Iowa was sub-deacon, and Father Jasper, O. F. M. acted as master of ceremonies.

Only one of the twelve novices who made their profession was from Louisiana. She is Sister M. Paschaline, O. S. F., formerly Joyzelle Potier of St. Paschal's parish in West Monro. Privileged to witness her religious profession were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elie Potier, her brother, Michael, and Mrs. S. J. Daigle and daughters, Janet and Rose Marie, all of West Monroe.

While in St. Louis, the Potiers were guests of the Franciscan Sisters in Ferguson. The Daigles were guests of Sister M. Pancratia at St. Casmirs parish in St. Louis.

Pelican Delegate Is Back From Meet

Ferriday, La., Aug. 26. —(Special)—Loren Enete, of St. Joseph was that town's representative at the Pelican Boys' State held in Baton Rouge. He has returned from the annual project which is sponsored by the American Legion of the state and geared to give the boys some actual experience in the affairs of government along with a good time in the state capitol.

Enete was sponsored by the parish post of the American Legion and the St. Joseph Rotary Club. He reports a very enjoyable and very active week during his stay on the campus of Louisiana State University. He said it was "Fall In Line" from the first minute he arrived until the close of the session.

He added that as the boys were in process of leaving, the girls were filing into the capital city for their session of Girls' State.

DOROTHY DIX

Too Young To Marry

Boy Shouldn't Burden Parents With Support Of His Wife

DEAR MISS DIX: I am not yet 19 years old but I want to marry. The girl is a year older than I am and is willing, but my parents are not, giving as a reason that I am too young and am not able to make a living. I cannot deny this. What do you think I should do?

DICK

ANSWER: There isn't but one honorable and decent thing you can do, and that is to put off marrying until you can support a family. Providing for his wife and children is a man's own responsibility and he has no right to dump that on anybody else's shoulders.

DOROTHY DIX

Certainly a boy has very little self respect and manhood about him if he marries a girl and brings her home for his parents to support, and he is a still more abject and despicable creature when he becomes a parasite upon his wife's people.

FAMILY'S POINT OF VIEW

Try to look at this matter from your parents' point of view and see what a rotten deal you are giving them if you marry before you can provide for a family. Ever since you were born they have worked hard to take care of you and give you the best advantages they could possibly afford. They have made many sacrifices to educate you and to give you a chance in life. They have been glad to do all this for you because they loved you and wanted you to have a better chance in life than they had themselves.

But they are human, and they have been looking forward to the time when their children were reared and on their own feet, when they could slack down and take things easier, and when they could spend their income on the little treats and luxuries that they have denied themselves. But if you marry and bring a wife home for them to support then you simply send your parents back into slavery. Don't you think that is playing it pretty low-down on the father and mother who have been so good to you?

And believe me, son, you will bring misery on yourself as well as your parents. Not one in a thousand kid marriages ever turns out well. You are too young to know what you want in a wife. Don't do it. If you have no regard for your parents, have some pity on yourself.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: The answer to the question of why fewer college girls than other girls marry is that the college woman is absolutely devoid of sympathetic understanding. She prides herself on her aloofness and arrogance and tries to impress her superiority on every one. No matter how educated a man may be and no matter how much he may admire the college woman at a distance, the woman who is to be his wife must have sympathetic understanding. The wife and mother without this quality cannot make a home, and by home I mean a home, not a house. That is the reason that even college men prefer non-college women. Am I not right?

J. C.

ANSWER: In former days, when college educations for girls were as rare as twenty carat diamonds the college woman may have flaunted her degree in peoples' faces and felt herself superior. But nowadays when half the girls you know are going to college, and to have an A. B. to tack after your name is no distinction, it seems to me that the highbrows walk very unpretentiously amongst us lowbrows.

I know scores of women who have had a college education and have forgotten it, so to speak, and who are competent business women and splendid wives and mothers and whose conservation is just ordinary woman stuff—their work, the new styles, the price of groceries, the baby's diet, etc.

And as for an education making a woman unsympathetic and lacking in understanding that's all piffle. The more a woman knows, the more she understands. The broader her vision, the greater her tolerance. In educating a woman's head you also educate her heart and make finer and keener her sensibilities.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Is it true that only the illiterate are jealous? Can it be overcome? And if so, how?

ANSWER: Jealousy has nothing to do with literacy. Many very highly educated and intelligent people are victims of the green-eyed monster, but it alway seems to me that they are lacking in common sense and the ability to see things in the right proportion. Jealousy is a queer combination of some of the worst traits in human nature. It is made up of selfishness, suspicion, evil imaginings and an inferiority complex, and the best way to combat it is to face the fact that you are jealous of someone because you want to monopolize him or her.

DOROTHY DIX cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet D-7, "Disposition," gives tips on maintaining a happy marriage. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix, c/o this newspaper, P. O. Box 98, Times Square Station, New York 18, N. Y.

Two Of Hayman's Photos Accepted

Ed Hayman, owner of Ed Hayman's Studio located at 218 Grammont street, has received word that two of his photographs had been accepted and displayed at the National convention of the Photographer's Association of America. The convention was held in Chicago at the Hotel Stevens during the week of August 14th through the 18th. Mr. Hayman was awarded two certificates of merit for the prints that were accepted and exhibited. Mr. Hayman now has a total of five certificates of merit toward the title of master of photography.

The photographs accepted were "Evening Shadows" and "Winter in the South" and were both scenes of Dr's. W. E. and Irma Jones residence made at a time when Monroe was covered with a heavy snow. Thousands of entries from the United States and Canada were submitted by professional photographers and it is indeed an honor to have your entry accepted and merits awarded.

Mrs. Hayman is at the present time attending the advanced portrait course in photography at Winona Lake, Indiana. She is being instructed by four of the leading master photographers in the United States. Upon her return to Monroe Mrs. Hayman intends to specialize in the portrait phase of the business with special emphasis on portraits of babies and children.

SHOULDN'T HAPPEN

Peoria, Ill. —(AP)— Man can be a dog's best friend, too. The hound in this case stuck his head into a foot-long drain tile and couldn't get it out. D. G. Wineland, a painter, heard a whimpering and took the dog and its ceramic collar to a veterinarian. A little liquid soap, a gentle pull and the dog was free.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, says Sociologist Harold Christensen, Purdue University, in his book, "Marriage Analysis." He explains (paraphrased): "Men can further higher standards of morality and womanly influence by making the good girl popular. Too often they date the girl who gives them the most thrill, only to look for a more stable home type when they get ready to settle down." Other marriage studies show that the happiest, most popular wife is the "old fashioned good girl." Girls, she always will be!

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes, "by training more psychiatrists," says Psychiatrist Karl A. Menninger. He explains that cured one patient who had already cost $20,000, and would in time have cost $130,000 more. It costs $50,000, he continues, to train a top psychiatrist. But every mental patient, who is not treated in time will cost someone or the taxpayers $50,000 to $150,000. Sobering figures, fellow taxpayers, as mental illness is the costliest disease in the world.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Probably, no. Psychologist Emily Dexter, Agnes Scott College, Ga., found in a study among 200 male and female students that only children reported themselves as having been homesick less frequently than those with one or more brothers and sisters. While the only child was somewhat less likely to be popular, it seems that he or she had learned better to take care of "number one."

SLUG DID IT! SLUG DID IT... WE'RE RICH, MOTHER! WE'RE RICH!

SLUG SENT IN A QUESTION THAT STUMPED THE BRAIN BUSTERS' PROGRAM!

AND HE'S SURE IN THE BIG MONEY NOW!

ORDER UP, FOLKS... THE SODAS ARE ALL ON ME!

BUT I TELL YOU, ALICE, THEY WERE ROUND AND FLAT.. AND THEY WENT SWOOSH!

AND YOU KNOW THE DOCTOR TOLD YOU NEVER TO GO ABOVE 5000 FEET!

OH, MINNIE! I'M SO GLAD I'M YOUR MOTHER!

BUT, FREDDIE! AREN'T YOU GOING TO CONGRATULATE SLUG?

I'M FIGURING OUT HOW MUCH HE OWES ME FOR ROOM AND BOARD!

COME ON, MYRTLE, SLUG IS BUYING!

IF I GIVE YOU THE KEY, WILL YOU JUST TAKE 'EM AROUND THE BLOCK AND COME BACK?

WE WANT TO GO BYE-BYE!

WE WANT TO TAKE A WIDE!

I'LL BE GLAD WHEN SLUG SETTLES DOWN AND GETS BACK HERE ON HIS OLD JOB!

STOP FEELING SORRY FOR YOURSELF, ARNOLD, AND KNOCK OUT TWO MORE MALTED MILKS!

ALL SLUG ASKED 'EM WAS HOW LONG DO YOU BOIL A THREE-MINUTE EGG?

I SHOULD THINK THE ANSWER WOULD BE THREE MINUTES!

THAT'S WHAT THE BRAIN BUSTERS THOUGHT, BUT THAT'S WRONG!

OF COURSE IT'S WRONG! I BOIL JOHN'S EGGS FOUR AND A HALF MINUTES.

WE TIME OUR EGGS BY THE TRAFFIC LIGHT AT THE CORNER-

-FOUR REDS AND THREE GREENS!

I HAD AN EGG THIS MORNING THAT I DON'T THINK WAS BOILED AT ALL!

Little Orphan Annie

SHORE PURELY UNCANNY HOW YOU, A TENDERFOOT GAL, FOUND THAT FRESH SPRING, HID SO GOOD I NEVER FOUND IT IN OVER FORTY YEARS—

REMEMBER— JUST TELL HIM, BEGINNER'S LUCK!

EH? OH—YEAH— JUST BEGINNER'S LUCK, I GUESS—

"THERE IS THY GOLD, WORSE POISON TO MEN'S SOULS, DOING MORE MURDERS IN THIS LOATHSOME WORLD, THAN THESE POOR COMPOUNDS THAT THOU MAYST NOT SELL." (SHAKESPEARE)

HM-M—AND THAT PACK MULE, LOADED WITH GRUB—YOU SHORE SAVED TH' DAY, ANNIE—

GEE! AND NOW WE'VE GOT MILLIONS AN MILLIONS IN GOLD!

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
Copyright, 1950, by News Syndicate Co., Inc.

BUT WHY CAN'T WE LOAD LOTS O' GOLD ONTO THAT PACK MULE AN' TAKE IT OUT TO PROVE WE'VE REALLY FOUND TH' "LOST ARMENIAN" MINE?

CAUSE IT'D JEST GIT US KILT— WE AIN'T TAKIN' A SPECK O' GOLD NO PLACE— NOT YIT!

FUST, WE GIT A TOUGH GANG O' OUR FRIENDS ROUNDED UP! WE GITS A SMART LAWYER, TOO—A PLUMB HONEST ONE—

BUT, LEAPIN' LIZARDS! YOU FOUND TH' GOLD! IT'S YOURS!

OH, SURE— I RECALL A FELLER NAMED MARSHALL FOUND TH' FUST GOLD IN CALEY-FORNIA IN 1848—HE BRAGGED SOME—FOLKS TRIED TO LYNCH HIM—DROVE HIM CLEAR OUT O' TH' STATE AN' TORE DOWN HIS MILL—A LOT O' GOOD FINDIN' GOLD DONE HIM—

THET FUST GOLD WAS FOUND ON CAP'N. SUTTER'S LAND—NO BODY AST SUTTER EFFEN THEY COULD TRESPAISS AN' LOOK AROUND A MITE—GANGS JEST MOVED IN ON HIM—

—RUINED HIS CROPS—TORE DOWN HIS BUILDIN'S—ET UP HIS STEERS FREE— 'FORE THEY GOT THROUGH, THEY EVEN PROVED, "LEGAL," HE DIDN'T EVEN OWN HIS OWN LAND—THERE'S A LESSON IN ALL THET, ANNIE, THET I AIM TO PROFIT BY—

I AIM THAT WE AS FOUND MILLIONS IN GOLD WILL LIVE TO SPEND THEM MILLIONS—EFFEN IT MEANS BLOODSHED—WA-AL—I SUSPECT IT AIN'T GOIN' TO BE OUR BLOOD—THET'S ALL!

THEY SAY "HISTORY TEACHES THAT HISTORY TEACHES NOTHING"—WAL, IN BROODIN' OVER THAT BIT O' HIST'RY FER FORTY-FIFTY YEARS, IT'S TAUGHT ME A LESSON OR TWO—

YEAH—I SEE WHAT YOU MEAN— WHAT DO WE DO FIRST?

FUST, WE KIVER THAT "DIGGIN" AGIN— WARN'T ONLY GRUB ON THAT PACK MULE— FOUND A FEW STICKS O' POWDER, TOO—

'TWON'T TAKE MUCH—JEST A LEETLE SLIDE'LL DO IT— THEN WE'LL HIGH TAIL IT FER HOME—AND GIT BUSY— NOW THEN—

MR. HILL! "WINDY"! LOOK OUT! GET BACK!

LOOKS LIKE I'VE GOT TO DIG UP HISTORY BACK TO THE SPANISH CONQUEST TO SOLVE THIS MURDER, WISE HORSE!

AS I TOLD YOU, I STUDIED THE HISTORY OF MY PEOPLE! WHEN CARLOS FERODEZ PLUNDERED THEM. THEIR VILLAGE WAS THERE!

"MY PEOPLE FOLLOWED HIM NORTHWARD TO THE RANGE NOW KNOWN AS THE CACTUS HILLS."

"DURING THE NIGHT, WHILE THE SPANIARDS SLEPT, THEY POISONED THE WATER FOR THE HORSES..."

ON FOOT, THE SPANIARDS WERE DOOMED, ALTHOUGH THEY FOUGHT OFF MY PEOPLE LONG ENOUGH TO HIDE THE LOOT!

AND NOT ONE OF FERODEZ'S MEN GOT OUT ALIVE!

HERE'S THE MAP AS I REMEMBER IT-- SEE HOW THE TRAIL OF FERODEZ FORMS AN ANGLE WITH NEARLY EQUAL SIDES?

SIERRA CIBOLA

CIUDAD DE CIBOLA

... SIMPLE GEOMETRY WOULD LOCATE THE X, MARKING THE TREASURE, IN THE HILLS STRAIGHT NORTH OF A SPOT HALFWAY BETWEEN HALFSHOD AND THE PLACE WHERE THE MAP-MAKER DIED!

I DID NOT KNOW HOW TO READ THE MAP THAT WAS STOLEN, BUT NOW I CAN RECOVER THE TREASURE STOLEN FROM MY PEOPLE!

LATER--

EASY... HEAVENS! YOU ARE HURT! WHAT IS WRONG?

I'LL TELL YOU LATER, MISS FERODEZ! RIGHT NOW I NEED YOUR HELP TO GET TO THE LOOT YOUR ANCESTOR HID 400 YEARS AGO!

SEARCHING FOR DALE, FLASH SLIPS INTO ZIN'S PRISON GARDENS. IMMEDIATELY HE IS SEIZED FROM BEHIND BY A PAIR OF STRONG HANDS.

FLASH IS NOT SO EASY TO CAPTURE. HE TURNS TO COUNTER-ATTACK -- BUT STOPS SHORT. "A GIRL!" HE SAYS. "DON'T CALL FOR HELP. I'M NO PROWLER. I'M FLASH GORDON. I CAME TO RESCUE DALE. WHERE IS SHE?"

"FLASH?" THE BEAUTIFUL AMAZON GASPS. "I'M LARGA: YOU SAVED MY BROTHER LOYO ONCE. LET ME HELP YOU." SHE SHOWS HIM DALE'S CELL, AND WHISPERS: "THERE'S A GUARD." FLASH SPRINGS ON HIM LIKE A TIGER.

DALE STARES UNBELIEVINGLY. "ARE YOU ALL RIGHT, DEAR?" SHE ASKS. "I THOUGHT ZIN HAD TURNED YOU INTO A SLAVE-ZOMBIE." FLASH SMILES. "ZIN THOUGHT SO, TOO. WE'LL HAVE NEWS FOR HIM. BUT FIRST LET'S GET OUT OF HERE."

LARGA SUGGESTS THEY CAN HIDE WITH HER BROTHER, WHO IS NOW A FUGITIVE FROM ZIN'S CHAIN GANG OF AUTOMATONS. FLASH LEADS THEM THROUGH THE TUNNEL PAST THE ELECTRON FENCE.
